

MIX QUILTS: Display offers flavor of Japanese garden

Continued from page 3

their simplicity.” Her quilt features actual photographs, printed on fabric, then appliquéd to the quilt.

Although most of the quilts are primarily shades of green, Morin’s three-piece depiction of the famous Japanese maple tree has warmer tones. “Having seen so many photos of this spectacular Japanese maple tree, I decided to check it out in person. Much to my surprise, what I thought was going to be a humongous tree ended up being small and almost insignificant. After getting over my initial disappointment, with camera in hand, I crawled under the tree, looked up, and that is when I saw the most magnificent view of this famous tree.”

If you’ve never been to the garden in Portland, you may stop to visit these quilts in the Sisters Library, which is open Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturdays from 10 to 5. It might just inspire a visit to the real Japanese Garden.

On Quilt Show Day, July 14, the Three Sisters Historical Society will be set up in the library with two historic quilts — one from 1913 and one from 1934. (See related story, page 1.)

TEACHER: Givot is a major contributor to science education

Continued from page 3

Research Center, high-altitude balloon research, and oh, did I mention biology and chemistry! She has kept us busy, given us purpose.”

Responders parked their vehicles near other houses earlier in the Collins neighborhood to keep Rima from suspecting something when fellow teacher Jon Renner arrived at the Collins home with Rima half an hour later.

After all the hugging and handshaking, Bob got the show on the road and formally thanked Givot for everything she has done for him, her students, the science club and the Sisters community.

“Rima is the shuttle that weaves together Sisters scientists into unique educational offerings for students,” Collins said. “She has created student educational programs unique to Sisters High School, using community scientists as teaching assistants.

“Rima has a deep and abiding belief that students will discover who they are in high school by pursuing three goals.

“ Rima is the shuttle that weaves together Sisters scientists into unique educational offerings for students.

— Bob Collins

1. Discover your potential to learn and grow by embracing challenges with motivation and discipline — push through mental and physical barriers into a place of active growth. You will discover a love for lifelong learning.

2. Discover your goodness

PHOTO BY JIM ANDERSON

David Hiller looks on while Bob Collins shows Rima Givot the congratulations card signed by Sisters Science Club members.

by reaching out to the goodness in other people with shared work, kindness, empathy. You will discover self confidence to live and love in our social world.

3. Discover your unique and beautiful home by embracing your natural surroundings: the trees, shrubs, flowers, birds and animals just outside in the forest, mountains, rivers and sky.

You will build a life-long respect and love for our world.

“Oh, and did I mention she teaches biology, chemistry, IEE and cross-country running — a master of the usual stuff!”

At this point Collins awarded Givot with the SSC trilobite, which fit beautifully into her career, as her master’s is in geology.

Committed to the health of our community.

Mark Sauerwein, MD, and Lynn Hughes, FNP-C

Meet Mark Sauerwein, MD, and Lynn Hughes, FNP-C, of St. Charles Family Care in Sisters.

Dr. Sauerwein has a passion for caring for underserved populations. He has participated in many overseas medical mission projects and comes to Sisters most recently from a Yakima Valley Farmworkers clinic in Astoria, Ore.

Lynn Hughes, FNP-C, has been with our Sisters clinic since June 2017. Lynn enjoys managing not only the physical care of her patients, but also helping them understand how mental wellness and social factors influence their health.

Dr. Sauerwein will see patients beginning July 9. Both are currently accepting new patients. Call 541-549-1318 to schedule an appointment.

541-549-1318

630 N. ARROWLEAF TRAIL, SISTERS | StCharlesHealthCare.org

CHECK OUT

this week’s Nugget inserts!

RAY’S Food Place

Just CAN’T get enough Cantaloupe, CAN YA?

Don’t miss this deal for large, sweet melons:

3 for $5!

BI-MART

Save over 43%

now on the 3-person Dome Tent

by Cascade Outdoor Gear: It’s on sale for just $19.87! (regularly $34.97)