CHAMPS: Runners outperformed expectations in win

the way to the finish, edging Stayton’s Alyssa Cudd by .03 seconds to place 15th in her best time of the season (21:54) and Pearl Gregg knocked nearly a full minute off of her personal best to finish 18th in 22:09 to secure the win for Sisters with 45 points. Philomath finished second with 48 and Stayton was third with 50 points.

Iris Diez (23:19) and Sasha Stolasz (24:57), the sixth and seventh non-scoring runners for the Outlaws, also ran personal bests.

“Honestly, that was one of most amazing team performances I have ever seen,” said Nordell. “These girls outdid themselves!” Hannah Hernandez of Philomath led wire to wire to win the individual title in 18:22.

Sisters will join 11 other 4A teams at Saturday’s OSAA State Championships at Lane Community College in Eugene. All classifications converge at the same site starting with the 1A/2A/3A girls at 10 a.m.

The 4A girls start time is 11:45 a.m.

Other teams competing include top-ranked Marist, defending champ Tillamook, Philomath, Siuslaw, La Grande, Valley Catholic, Baker, Henley, Phoenix, Gladstone, and Estacada.

“I am not making any predictions for State, but I am more confident than ever that these girls will give it their best effort, that’s for sure,” said Nordell.

SCHOOLS: Fundraising campaign will benefit students

Educators submit funding requests to the Foundation to support equipment purchases or educational experiences for students at all three Sisters schools. The Foundation does not fund salaries. The Foundation makes distributions in the spring and in the fall.

Last spring, for instance, the Foundation provided support such as physical education equipment at Sisters Elementary School and funding for the fourth-grade field trip; funded classroom materials and student retreats for middle school students; LINK Crew advisor training for high school students; and district-wide items like music instruments and athletic trainer supplies.

Over the years, the Foundation has funded choral risers at the elementary school, sixth-grade outdoor school, middle school

Language Arts novel books and writing curriculum, I.E.E. Language Arts, Chromebooks and more.

The Foundation also funds a local scholarship for high school seniors’ post-secondary education.

“Our goal is to fund as many (requests) as possible, but we have to live within our means,” said Foundation board member Ross Kennedy. “Experiential learning is what we’re really trying to benefit.”

Kennedy said that a similar campaign last year netted $15,000.

“This year, we’d like to shoot for $25,000,” he said.

Kennedy noted that the Foundation is an all-volunteer organization, which maximizes the bang for every donated buck.

“There’s no administrative cost,” he said. “One hundred percent of every donation goes into programs.”

Donations can go into the Foundation’s general fund or be targeted to benefit a particular program.
