HERBICIDE: Permanent rule emplaced after killing of trees

Nothing in the permanent rule prohibits the sale of the logged trees as saw timber, Reid confirmed. A buyer would, however, be restricted from using any chips or sawdust for mulch.

"We would put that in our prospectus when that goes out to bid," Reid said.

Reid said that the Forest Service is working diligently on crafting a timber sale, which could go out to bid soon.

"Hopefully early this summer," Reid said. "And we would get it sold fairly quickly. This summer; this fall at the latest."

Reid noted that the stumps left in the wake of the project will be visible for a while before crews come back in to grind them. He said that scientists are interested in inspecting the stumps to gauge the herbicide effects and possibly to study fire scars. The timeline for grinding the stumps has not yet been determined.

The ACP rule:

- Prohibits ACP use on rights of way, natural areas, restoration areas, marshes, swamps, bogs, wetlands and sage-grouse areas unless: applications are noncontiguous and, in the aggregate, do not exceed more than five percent of an acre; use is limited to one application per 365 days; and use is to control state- or county-listed noxious weeds.

A new herbicide will not preclude selling harvested trees as saw timber.

- Prohibits ACP use on inner and outer banks of ditches and canals.
  - Prohibits ACP use where roots of non-target trees or shrubs may extend.
  - Prohibits all aerial applications of ACP.
  - Prohibits plant materials that have been treated with or exposed to ACP from being used in compost, mulch or animal bedding that is used in compost or mulch.
  - Defines rights of way specific to ACP use.
  - Failure to comply may result in revocation, suspension or refusal to issue or renew a certification or license and/or imposition of a civil penalty.
- ODA first adopted a temporary rule limiting the use of ACP in September 2018. ODA proposed a permanent rule in January 2019, which was scheduled to be adopted in March 2019. On March 20, ODA received a request from Bayer Crop Science LP, Environmental Science Division, the registrant for ACP products in Oregon, to postpone adoption of the permanent rule. As required by law, ODA postponed the date of its intended action. ODA also reopened public comment. During this time, ODA received an additional 118 comments, which it considered when drafting the permanent rule.
