Bend Electric Bikes

Sterling and Kathy McCord are in the business of promoting both physical and environmental health with their large selection of battery-assist, or electric, bikes for sale and rent.

A 30-year resident of Bend, Sterling loves anything with wheels. While riding around Bend on one of his creations, people stopped him and asked where they could get one.

Eleven years later, the McCords are busy renting electric bikes by the hour, day, or longer. They carry a variety of electric bikes for sale with price tags from $2,000 - $9,000, and up for a turbo model.

Simply plug the bike into a regular electric outlet and several hours later travel from 25 -100 miles on that charge. You choose how much assist you need – just a little or a whole lot.

“Because of their ease of use, battery-assist bikes allow people to ride more often and further, with less pain and strain,” Sterling explained.

Sisters Gallery & Frame Shop

From your kid’s kindergarten drawing to a priceless ancient map on handmade paper, Sisters Gallery and Frame Shop preserves and frames your beautiful memories and décor.

“What makes it special to you makes it special to us,” says Helen Schmidling.

She and Dennis have operated Sisters Gallery and Frame Shop since 2010, taking over from photographer Gary Albertson when he suffered irreparable damage to his vision from a rare form of glaucoma.

Dennis is also a photographer and graphic designer, which means he can apply special attention to complex designs and do photo editing, restoration, and printing. The gallery, at 252 W. Hood Ave., displays and sells work by more than 20 local artists. That’s where Helen will greet you and help pick the frame that best fits your needs. Dennis then crafts the frames in his studio a few doors away.

What do you do when your favorite store in Sisters seems to be going away? If you’re Jaimi and James Warren — you buy it!

New local owners, the Warrens and their partner and Jaimi’s best friend, Tina Zamora, have reopened the iconic Western and Native American lifestyle store. The store you loved carries on with its wonderful rustic charm — and is now open seven days a week.

Antler Arts features locally handcrafted lighting, home décor, furniture and jewelry that fits the Sisters Country way of life so perfectly. From table lamps to magnificent antler chandeliers, from whimsical wildlife to breathtaking Western scenes, Antler Arts has something you will just have to take with you to outfit your cozy home or your Western lodge.

You can follow Antler Arts on Facebook at www.facebook.com/antlerartsinc and stop on in to visit one of Sisters’ truly unique local favorites.
