

Bookstore will be a bunkhouse

Paulina Springs Books will become a bunkhouse for an evening on Saturday, June 22, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Author Craig Rullman will present his new publication “The Bunkhouse Chronicles: Field Notes From The Figure 8 Ranch,” a collection of essays centered around questions about the relationship of people to the landscape, specifically of the American West.

Some of the essays contained in the volume have appeared in Rullman’s column in The Nugget; others were collected or created specifically for the book.

Rullman selected the title “The Bunkhouse Chronicles” for both column and book because it evokes the sense of sitting around telling yarns and hashing out some of the fundamental matters of the human condition.

“Having lived in a few bunkhouses, it’s kind of a place for conversation, for storytelling, for asking questions,” he said.

That’s the atmosphere Rullman will attempt to create at Paulina Springs on Saturday night — with a little Western music to set the tone, provided by Jim Cornelius.

Rullman continually circles back to the belief that “the answers are sometimes outlived by the questions,” so those in attendance are welcome to bring their own approach to those questions to kick around: The questions of how a republic crafted in the 18th century can sustain itself in the 21st. Questions around how a fragile ecosystem like that of the American West can sustain millions of people who live and work on it — with more coming in all the time.

That’s a question with direct impact on our lives in Sisters.

“It’s the most fundamental relationship we have — with the ground we live on,” Rullman says. “It’s probably more important than ever that we take care of it.”

We live our day-to-day without thinking much about questions like, “Where does our water come from?” and “What will we do when there’s not enough to go around?” When those questions arise, it’s because the situation has gotten acute.

“The tap turns on and we don’t think about it too much,” Rullman says. “You don’t think about your left thumb until you bang it on a door jam — then it’s all you think about.”

“The Bunkhouse Chronicles: Field Notes From The Figure 8 Ranch” is available at Paulina Springs Books, which is located at 252 W. Hood Ave. For more information call 541-549-0866.

which faced potential closure. The market has moved to a new day and time, Sundays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. through the end of September. Lunch with shaded seating, activities for kids, workshops and demos, strong vendors, and a serious marketing push are underway.

So far, efforts have been successful. Organizers estimated Sunday’s attendance at about 165 people, well above last year’s low of under 20.

“The challenge is keeping this up through late season,” said T. Lee Brown, whose new title is Director of Marketing & Special Ops.

“We’d love to have more volunteers helping us get the word out,” Brown said.

Contact tiffany@plazm.com to offer help with flyers, posters, online calendars, or other outreach.

The Sunday Showcase programs encourage community activity at the Farmers Market. They are funded in part by a grant from the Roundhouse Foundation. Sponsors include Metabolic Maintenance, Cottonwood Café, She Soars Psychiatry, Plazm, The Nugget Newspaper, SPRD, and XPress Printing.

NOTICE OF BUDGET HEARING

A public meeting of the Panoramic Access Special Road District Board of Commissioners will be held on Wednesday, June 19, 2019, at 7 p.m. in the community meeting room of Ray’s Food Place in Sisters, Oregon. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the budget for the fiscal year beginning 1 July 2019 as approved by the district budget committee. Copies of the budget may be obtained by emailing a request to panoramicroads@gmail.com. This budget was prepared using Oregon Department of Revenue forms LB-20 and LB-30. A summary of the budget information is as follows:

Resources:	Carry over from previous fiscal year:.....	$30,207.40
	Estimated taxes to be received:	$33,000.00
	Total Resources:	$63,207.40
Requirements:	Administrative materials/services:	$5,000.00
	Operations materials/services:	$55,207.40
	Operating contingency:	$3,000.00
	Total Requirements:	$63,207.40

This budget includes an unusually large carry over from fiscal year 2018/2019 because anticipated road maintenance requirements were not addressed then. These requirements still exist. The most cost effective way to meet them is under review.
