The construction of a 9,100-square-foot Dollar General Store will certainly adversely affect Bi-Mart, who deserves better than this.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the volunteers who will be cleaning up Zimmerman Butte. But I would say that the trash out there is a symptom of a mismanaged facility. Surely the Forest Service should be ensuring that trash, fire safety, and noise pollution are appropriately managed at their gun range.

The notion that this is used by target shooters is a misnomer. As a neighbor to this facility we hear fully automatic weapons and noise levels that are disturbing and certainly spoil our ability to enjoy the forest. People riding or hiking near the facility feel unsafe and the Forest Service is chartered with ensuring the enjoyment of the forest for all.

We should all demand that they do so.

To the Editor:

Responding to Mr. Mackey's letter denying the rise of racism in America. Sir, naming a dozen successful black people no more demonstrates the absence of racism than a list of rich people proves there is no poverty. I am saddened by such a "head-in-the-sand" perspective. Following the tragedy in El Paso, can't we be a little more aware?

Declaring the majority of news to be "fake," I can only assume what resources Mr. Mackey relies on for his facts. FBI Director Christopher Wray has recently testified before Congress about the rising number of arrests in our country related to white supremacy. By mid-year the rate was twice that of 2018. "New Hate and Old," a comprehensive report from the Anti Defamation League's Center on Extremism starts with this clear conclusion: "White supremacists in the United States have experienced a resurgence in the past three years, driven in large part by the rise of the alt right."

The report details substantial evidence behind this claim. A report by the Southern Poverty Law Center states that last year the number of hate groups active in the USA rose to its highest level in two decades. There is much more. Indeed, the rise of racism in America is real.

We live in a privileged, well-educated yet particularly non-diverse community in a state with a notably racist past. On this and many issues, I believe we have a special responsibility to stay well informed, speak from fact and act in a way that contributes to progress for all.
