

Women Build in Sisters

Sisters Habitat for Humanity and Lowe's Warehouse in Redmond partnered to celebrate women building affordable homes in Sisters. Through International Women Build Week, Habitat and Lowe's unite women around the world to bring awareness to the need of affordable housing. Women gather, learn skills, build and repair homes all over the world.

Nine women from the Lowe's store came to help construct homes in various stages of building in the Village Meadows subdivision. Together with regular Sisters Habitat volunteers, these women helped side a home designated to the Neal family and build heat pump enclosures for the Palmer's and Likens' homes.

When asked about their experience and what they learned, Jessica Porter replied, "I learned that I can't wait to get involved in carpentry and volunteer again!"

Sisters Habitat for Humanity will host their regular annual Women Build Week May 5 to 9. More information will be available soon.
