Students adapt to learning at a distance

By Chloe Gold
Correspondent

Following the March 13 shutdown of all in-school education as a result of the global COVID-19 pandemic, Sisters School District students were able to virtually return to their studies on Monday, April 13.

While elementary school students are being taught by their parents with videos and materials provided by their teachers, the high school students have been able to have a somewhat normal school day — from the safety of their homes.

From Monday through

Thursday, the students of Sisters High School take part in three-hour school days. During these days, students have their normal class periods in 30-minute video conferences.

Seniors at Sisters High School have been given their final grades and are not required to participate further in classes (although it is encouraged). For all the other students at the high school, like freshmen Ella Thorsett and Annie Cohen, their final grades have yet to be determined, and they're still required to attend all classes.

ESI earns recognition for hiring veterans

ENERGYneering Solutions, Inc. (ESI) has been awarded the HIRE Vets Gold Medallion, a national honor by the U.S. Department of Labor, which recognizes exemplary efforts to recruit, employ, and retain American military veterans. ESI is one of five companies in Oregon to receive the national recognition, and is the only one in Central Oregon.

The HIRE Vets Act was signed by President Trump in May 2017. It is the only veteran hiring award at the federal level. In a letter from the U.S. Secretary of Labor Eugene Scalia wrote, "By meeting the criteria for the 2019 Gold Medallion Award, ENERGYneering Solutions demonstrated patriotism worthy of praise, and showed recognition of the value veterans bring to the workplace."

The criteria require hiring, retention, representation, and support of veterans. First,

Sisters author launches Kickstarter

Jim Cornelius
Editor in Chief

Lisa May has experienced profound loss, and suffering so acute that it made her question her close-held faith. Seeking to make sense of it all — and to find ways to help others — sent the Sisters artist down a path that has led to a Kickstarter crowdfunding campaign to produce her book "Transformed by God's Nature: Finding Hope In God's Character In The Midst Of Suffering."

"Honestly, what I did, I spent the last months of 2016 doing a lot of searching about what I should do with all I've been through,"

she told The Nugget.

May describes her crisis of faith in her Kickstarter narrative:

"My heart broke with the question that threatened my faith: 'How do I know that God is good when my life is not?' I had served God, and
