

Duo offers stellar property management

Those who own rental properties in Sisters rely on top-quality property management — a service offered by Annie Andreson and Danielle Thrasher in the South Sister Property Management Office affiliated with Tim Kizziar at Stellar Realty Northwest. The office is located in a new co-op space at 382 E. Hood Ave.

Andreson has been a real estate broker in Sisters for over 30 years, and a Sisters resident since 1978.

“The properties I manage are often properties I’ve sold to people in Sisters,” Andreson said.

Thrasher is an active partner in the work.

“I’ve kind of moved into a more managerial, part-ownership role,” she said. “All the owners Annie has sold properties to, I’ve been able to build relationships with.”

Combined, Annie and Danielle have 50 years management experience. Thrasher has been in the field for several years, and has a deep background in a variety of forms of management.

That trust keeps people coming back — because they’ve had good experiences.

“My owners turn into sellers and my tenants turn into buyers,” Andreson said.

With 52 rental properties active, Andreson and Thrasher stand ready to help clients buy, sell, or lease a rental property.

“I love real estate,” Andreson said. “I love helping people find what they want, helping people evaluate what they have.”

For property owners, finding a good tenant is a critical mission.

“We qualify renters really well,” Andreson said.

It’s an extremely tight rental market in Sisters, and Andreson and Thrasher have a list of high-quality renters waiting for an opening.

“We have a really great screening process,” Thrasher said. “We find the best renter for the property.”

They pride themselves on a straightforward rate structure that keeps things simple for property owners. And they pride themselves on building and maintaining strong personal relationships with everybody they work with.

As Thrasher observed, “Maintaining relationships is important right now.”

Teaming up for real estate success

Connie Mitchell has a proven real estate track record with buyers and sellers in Sisters over the course of 15 years — and now the second generation is coming on board to continue the tradition.

Connie’s daughter Francis Houlé received her broker’s license earlier this year. The mother and daughter are now affiliated with Stellar Realty Northwest, working out of a new co-op space at 382 E. Hood Ave.

“I love the way they do business,” Connie said. “It’s not about the money; it’s about the people, it’s about the relationships and the service we provide.”

While Houlé embarked on her new career in the midst of a tumultuous time, she has hit the ground with a confident stride.

“I think it’s a good path for me,” said Houlé of her venture into the family business. “I’ve felt so welcomed. And I have such a great mentor.”

While she benefits from Connie’s deep experience, Francis brings extensive knowledge in the latest digital trends of the industry and Oregon real estate marketing — and a passion for the work.

“I love homes; I love interior designing,” she said. “So this is a really good fit for me.”

In Central Oregon, it’s important to have a Realtor who knows the lay of the land and is ingrained within the culture of the community. Connie and Francis are lifelong residents of the area and specialize in tailoring a personal and organized approach that best fits each individual client’s needs.

This dynamic duo has come together to form a strategic union where knowledge meets passion, and innovation complements experience.

They bring many resources to bear. Francis’ husband Jordan Houlé provides drone photographer services and Francis is adept in the critical social media aspects of the work.

“I think that puts us a step above, really,” Connie reflected. “It’s nice to have it all in the family.”
