

ANDERSON: Columnist is moving to the Willamette Valley

the help of current editor, Nicole Vulcan and her team. Incredibly, I'm still getting responses for stories I wrote decades ago that have gone out into the vast worldwide Internet.

All these patient caring people (and so many more I took the time to listen to) have made me what my grandfather called, "A Success." During the early part of World War II I'd go with him in his horse drawn wagon from the farm we lived on into the town of West Haven, Connecticut, where we would sell produce and dairy products.

One afternoon I happened to come upon him sitting at the kitchen table counting the money we collected on that day's trip. As I approached him he looked up with a bunch of coins in his hand, smiled and said, "By golly, Jimmy I'm a success; I'm doing what I want to do, doin' it the best I can and gettin' paid for it."

And that, dear readers,

*The World's all right; serene I sit, And joy that I am part of it;
And put my trust in Nature's plan,
And try to aid her all I can;
Content to pass, if in my place
I've served the uplift of the Race.
Truth! Beauty! Love! O Radiant Day —
What ho! The World's all right, I say.

Jim Anderson. A success.

became my goal in life.

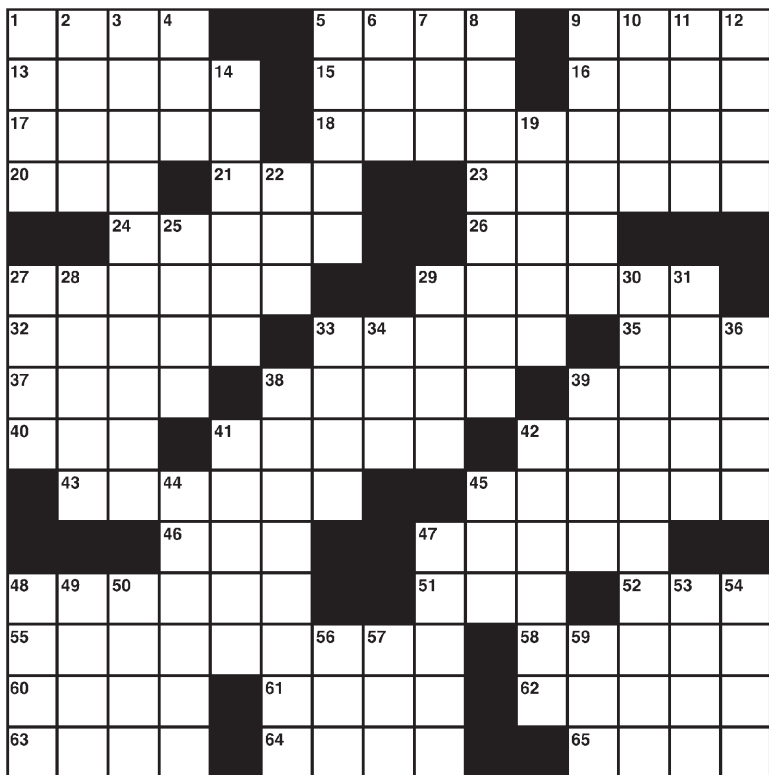

But now, although I still have a lot more stories in my head and heart, I'm preparing to leave my home here of many years and with my wife of nearly 50 years, join our son, Caleb, and his family over in Eugene, where sooner or later, I'll go out among the stars.

So long, dear readers, I've sure enjoyed our time together. Thanks for all you've taught me and I hope we'll meet again somewhere pleasant and relive the wonderful times we've shared on this grand old Earth, our home away from Home.

Trailhead changes for Whychus fish project

The Whychus Trailhead off Forest Road 16 south of Sisters will be closed to allow for construction of a project to improve fish passage in the area. The Whychus Trail will remain accessible.

The trailhead closure began on September 8 and will end on October 30. The closure is for public safety and to allow heavy equipment to operate safely in the project area. A temporary parking lot and trailhead is located 500 feet southwest of the closed trailhead. A temporary trail has been constructed to provide access to the Whychus Trail. Eastbound hikers will be directed to use the temporary trail to the temporary parking lot and asked not to enter the construction area.

The Plainview Fish Passage project will create an irrigation diversion fish screen, install a pipeline and remove a dam. The screening is being done to keep redband trout and steelhead from entering an irrigation ditch. The dam removal will allow fish to access habitat in upper Whychus Creek.

Plainview ditch is not currently screened and allows redband trout and steelhead to enter the ditch and not return to Whychus Creek. The dam that pushes water into the ditch is an upstream fish migration barrier.

A new fish screen will be installed, a pipe will be installed to carry some of the water, and the dam will be removed. Gravel, boulders and logs will be placed in the section of Whychus Creek to stabilize the channel after dam removal.

According to the Forest Service, the project supports Chinook salmon and steelhead trout reintroduction into the upper Deschutes Basin. The project also helps to protect native redband trout.
