John H. Myers

If you have spent a lifetime saving, investing, building a business, purchasing life insurance and providing for the future, you want to be the one deciding how to distribute your assets to your heirs. In addition, you may desire to make the administration of your estate as easy as possible for your loved ones during a time of grief.

John Myers makes that possible through his work in estate planning, trusts, and wills. The attorney is now practicing on his own here in Sisters as The Law Office of John H. Myers.

Myers makes two strong suggestions to clients: People should consider setting up a trust plan to avoid the costly and lengthy probate court process. A trust will save time and money in the end, and ease the process. Myers also advises people who move from out-of-state to review and update their plan for Oregon.
