

You've committed to us.
 Now we're committing to you.

Veteran's Day is a day celebrated in recognition of those who have fought for peace. We honor every man and woman who have committed their lives to serve on behalf of our peace.

Elmer McDaniels committed to protecting the peace of others when he was only 18. He joined the Navy and quickly realized how his commitment impacted those around him. He was based in Hawaii when Pearl Harbor was attacked and continued to serve throughout World War II. His experiences helped deepen his love of life. Elmer died on August 13, 2019, at 95 years old. However, before his death, he needed help. His wife, Barbara, was committed to helping him on her own. But she soon realized that she couldn't do it alone. She found help at Hospice of Redmond.

"I cannot say enough good things about Hospice of Redmond. Everything Hospice of Redmond did was focused on doing the best for Elmer. Every experience we had with Hospice of Redmond was always done with a smile, patience, love, and understanding."
 - Barbara McDaniels

At Hospice of Redmond, we also serve for the peace of others, but in a different way.

Hospice of Redmond is committed to helping people find peace at the end of their lives. We do this through various programs, including hospice care, palliative care, transitions, and bereavement support. To all who have served, thank you for your commitment to us. We commit to honoring you if you need us.
