

Sisters Fourth Friday All-Day Artwalk

By Helen Schmidling
Correspondent

Sisters' Fourth Friday All-Day Artwalk features a little bit of history, mystery, and a whole lot of talent.

Clarke Berryman is a classical realist. He has traveled the world in search of exotic subjects for his paintings. He has shown his art in many venues and was a finalist in the Art Renewal Center (ARC) Show, one of the world's largest art competitions. He paints both portraits and wildlife, and sells his work at The Collection Gallery.

Stitchin' Post Gallery is featuring Sarah Kaufman's vast collection of log cabin quilts she calls her Pandemic Potholder Passion. They will be on display through August.

"Old Gloves" by Sarah Kaufman at Stitchin' Post Gallery.

Hood Avenue Art's featured artists for August are painter Kathleen Keliher and enamel artist Alisa Looney. Kathleen, founder of the Plein Air Painters of Oregon, will be showing her plein-air-inspired studio paintings. Alisa is best known for her award-winning outdoor sculptures.

"I am a River" by Alisa Looney.

She has exhibited in the U.S. and Canada and her work is in a multitude of private and public collections, including Maryhill Museum of Art in Goldendale, WA. Alisa will be doing a live demonstration of her enameling work from 4 to 6 p.m. There will be live music and refreshments.

Marigold & True celebrates its one-year anniversary on Fourth Friday. Owner Kelly Rae Roberts was not able to have a grand opening, "so we're gonna have an anniversary celebration," she said. Save 20 percent on everything, and enjoy wine, cookies, and a raffle to win a $50 gift certificate.

Wildflower Studio will be featuring oil paintings by artist John Runnels. John works with a palette knife and produces paintings rich in both color and texture. He paints both landscapes and florals with an emphasis on aspen trees and seasonal color.

Sisters Gallery & Frame will feature Linda Hanson's oil paintings of Atomic City, population 29, home of the world's first nuclear power plant, and located in rural Idaho. She came across Atomic City on her way home to Sisters from a photography expedition to Yellowstone. Her oils preserve what Mother Nature has left to the elements. On January 3, 1961, a nuclear reactor the size of a small grain silo exploded there. Now there is just one store, a bar, an RV park, and a racetrack. Most of the people raised there are retired.

Jennifer Hartwig, "The Scratchboard Lady," will demonstrate how scratchboard art is done, also at Sisters Gallery & Frame.

Discover the mystery of Mokume Gane, a 400-year-old Japanese metal technique, at Bryan Lee Brown's Metals Jewelry Studio. The result is "wood-grain metal," like that once used to embellish samurai swords.

Paintings of Atomic City, site of the world's first nuclear power plant, by Linda Hanson are on display at Sisters Gallery & Frame.

Ken Scott's Imagination Gallery spotlights innovative jewelry artist Bill Belli, whose work covers many centuries in style. He will show his craftsmanship and creativity starting at noon.

Beacham's Clock Co. continues to amaze visitors with unique clock curiosities, including an original work in progress by master clock designer Ed Beacham.

Other galleries open on Fourth Friday include Raven Makes Gallery, Clearwater Gallery, Dyrk Godby Gallery, and the Cindy and Duncan Campbell Gallery at Sisters Art Works.

As you visit all of the galleries on Fourth Friday, remember to sign up for Quick Draw. Thanks to a generous gift from Cascade Sotheby's International Miniature camera clock at Beacham's Clock Co.

Realty in Sisters, two $50 gift certificates good for treasures in any of the participating galleries will be given away each month. You can sign up once per gallery. Please complete the entire ticket, as incompletes will not be considered.

For the rest of the summer, Sisters Arts Association (SAA) artists will be featured during the Sisters Folk Festival's summer concert series. The following artists will be featured: Michelle Deaderick (pottery), Clarke Berryman (painting), Paul Bennett (painting and print-making), and Mary Jo Weiss (jewelry). We invite you to stop by the booth at the concerts behind Sisters Art Works, and learn more about these artists and about SAA.

Save the dates: Sept. 25-26 for the SAA's Fifth Annual Artist Studio Tour. Tour guides will be available in August. This self-guided tour of artists' home studios is an opportunity for collectors to meet the artists, see their processes, and buy work directly from them.
