• On Saturday, August 7, 12 young men and women, eight shown here, from Black Butte Ranch Fire, Cloverdale Fire and Sisters-Camp Sherman Fire graduated from their Joint Recruitment Academy. The graduation honored those from both the 2020 and 2021 classes who successfully completed their Firefighter I Academy.

• Sisters District Ranger Ian Reid wrote:

We would like to thank all of the local restaurants and vendors who helped support approximately 220 firefighters with meals and supplies during the recent Monty and Bean Creek fires on the Sisters Ranger District. Smaller fires like these do not get national caterers, which are in extremely short supply this year for a variety of reasons.

At least three of the restaurants (Martolli's, Angeline's, and Mazatlan) significantly changed their operating schedule on very short notice by either closing to the general public or asking their staff to work late into the night. Angeline's also postponed their annual staff-appreciation rafting trip so the firefighters would have hot breakfasts and healthy meals. We appreciate your efforts!

Thanks to: Rays Food Place – Sisters; Tate & Tate Catering; Martolli's Pizza of Sisters, Angeline's Bakery; Mazatlan – Redmond; Regio's Café – Redmond; Subway – Sisters/Bend; Olive Garden – Bend; Sandwich Factory – Prineville; and Bi-Mart – Sisters (for Gatorade, which nobody else could supply because of the Gatorade shortage).

People behind The Nugget:

Angela Lund

Angela Lund admits that she didn't know anything about Sisters when her then-husband Jim announced that he had a job opportunity here back in 1998.

"When Jim said, 'Hey, I've got a job interview in Sisters, Oregon, I said, 'Where is that?'"

Going from metro Oregon to a then very small town on the east side of the Cascades was a bit of a culture shock, but Angela adapted — and before long, Sisters was truly home. Lund raised three children here: Erik; Sonja; and Peter. She has nurtured deep friendships and become a part of the cultural life of her community. She's worked at Angeline's Bakery and for Habitat for Humanity.

And now, she's part of the team at The Nugget. Lund fills the position recently held by Lisa May, who has moved into a full-time position with her church. Lund manages the front office and The Nugget's classified advertising, among a bewildering array of other tasks.

Lund already had a relationship with the newspaper, having worked as a freelancer in years past.

the ad in the paper," she said. "I thought it would be fun to be back in the newspaper world."

Editor in Chief Jim Cornelius was excited to see Lund's résumé pop up.
