He is well-known to those who are interested in the Americanization work. He was among the first to consider the matter after the war was over. He was a teacher in a large class, outlined a plan of procedure for the Northwest Y. M. C. A. convention which was held in Spokane, Wash., at that time and published a pamphlet on Americanization and how to Proceed, which was sold or given away by various societies of more than two million copies. Republican Ticket

I am a citizen and taxpayer, and as such am vitally interested in the growing burden of taxation.

I do not subscribe to the theory that taxes can be reduced by adding new tax burdens.

I am doubtful that any new laws are as necessary as is the elimination of the unnecessary and unworkable laws now on the statute books.

If nominated and elected, I will use my best efforts to conserve the interests of the entire public, as, in the final analysis, the public pays everything.

I shall favor neither class nor faction, as I believe in equal opportunity for all.

I am opposed to the government competing in business with industry, for the reason that when the government starts a line of business the doors of opportunity are closed to the people, for no one can compete with government.

I am opposed to delegating to Congress the powers that the Constitution reserved to the States, and which should be exercised by the States.

I purposely refrain from making a lot of promises that are doubtful of performance, and say only that the public interest will have paramount consideration.

Have been a resident of Portland since 1907. Have two sons who served in the World War.

I earnestly solicit your votes, as I am sincere in my desire for better government.
