

Halloween

Everybody's favorite holiday has come again. Halloween-related activity has been building now for a couple of weeks. We've seen some mask making workshops, Halloween story-telling and children's films, classic horror films, and haunted houses. Costume events are on the rise. A couple of weeks ago you could get in free to see "The Wizard of Oz" if you wore red slippers. Now it's ORT's erotic, exotic Future Man/Woman costume ball. And Halloween with Morris and Boris. The Whole bag of tricks!

Sunday, October 31, Halloween is celebrated both in daytime family-style events and nighttime dances and parties. During the day you can bike 25 miles on the Great Pumpkin Tour; or go out to the Arboretum, walk the trails, make cider, and look at mushrooms; or go to WISTEC's party featuring live bats and problem-solving apple bobbing. That night, Tattoo, Don Latarski, and Illuminations brighten up the WOW HALL for Jerry Rust's costume party; the Robert Cray Band celebrates its 6th Annual Halloween Ball with the Party Kings and the Burners at the Hilton; and there's a costume ball at the Black Forest Inn to benefit Vietnam Vets.

Halloween is for kids . . . all us kids.

James Thornbury Band

Grounded in the blues and rooted in rock 'n roll, James Thornbury writes a lot of the music he sings and plays on slide guitar, harp or electric lead. Bassist and vocalist Skip Jones writes material for the band as well. Saxophonist Barney Lindsley and drummer Barry Bamer add their considerable musical talents to the band. Together, they create a unique blend of classic road house rock 'n roll and blues, playing hot original music about sixty per cent of the time. You can catch James T. and Band at Old Taylor's this weekend; see Friday's and Saturday's listings.
