The Homefried Truckstop will be showing works of art by collective members and support workers through the end of February. The show will include woven fabrics by mark Pope, watercolor and calligraphy by Lisa Kennedy, cartoons by Heather Perkins, and a graffiti and art wall for customers. The truckstop is also soliciting shows for the coming months.

March Richmond will discuss Passion: The Great Human Liberator at the Eugene Hilton on Feb 22. Mark is a lifestyle designer and founder of Creative Survival Institute. He is a native of Oregon and has lectured world-wide.

Volunteers are sought for the Lucy Booth at the Saturday Market for 4-8 hours a month, from April to December. You would make referrals, give information, and help clients clarify problems. Applications from MHA office, 1432 Orchard St #4. 344-6092. Deadline Feb 28.

The housing department, in conjunction with the Learning Resource Center, is offering a special tutorial program from 7-9 pm on Sundays. The tutors see students who need help in their writing and math skills, or any issue they need help with.

David Schnell of the Springfield Youth Hostel is the new chairman of the Springfield Bicycle Committee. Comments, ideas and suggestions for the bike path and route planning for 1983 are requested from Springfield cyclists. Contact the Springfield Public Works Dept at 726-3753.

A card play marathon is being sponsored by the Zonta Club of Eugene to raise funds for the club's three local service projects—Meals on Wheels, FISH and Womenspace. Bridge, pinochle and canasta will be offered. Partners will play a set number of hands or games each month and will be eligible to play in final party in June. Cash prizes will be awarded and door prizes given away. There's a $10 tax-deductible entry fee, $7.50 for seniors and students. Individuals and groups can play. Call 342-5517 for more information.

Sacred Heart General Hospital has been awarded a three-year certificate of approval from the Commission on Cancer of the American College of Surgeons for its cancer therapy program. The program encourages discussion of cancer problems among all medical disciplines involving the diagnosis and treatment of cancer, thus assisting the attending physician in optimal treatment planning for his patient.

Tours of Sacred Heart can be arranged for school groups, community groups and other interested parties on Wednesdays. Call 686-7074 to schedule.

BRING Recycling is the only recycling organization in Lane County that recycles your glass, metal, paper and used motor oil and offers you three ways to learn about recycling—slide shows and tours for local groups and a number you can call if you have any question about recycling. Find out more about BRING's recycling education program by calling BRING, 746-3023.

Womenspace, which provides telephone counseling, emergency shelter and other supportive services to abused women and their children, will hold its Fourth Annual Lap-a-thon on Saturday, Feb 19. You can help support Womenspace by swimming or sponsoring a swimmer in this year's Lap-a-thon. Swimmers of all ages and experience are encouraged to participate. Check with your local pool for specific information. If you can't swim but would still like to help, phone in your pledge to sponsor a swimmer to Womenspace, at 485-6513.

Hill M. Walker, a specialist in behavior education, is the new associate dean of the Division of Special Education and Rehabilitation in the UO College of Education. As associate dean, Hill Walker is responsible for instructional programs for graduate training in speech pathology and audiology, handicapped populations, early childhood handicapped programs, and rehabilitation and research training programs. Two areas of special interest to Walker are training for secondary teachers working with handicapped students and training for people dealing with severely emotionally disturbed children. The second area is in No. 1 demand by school districts and various service agencies, according to Walker. Walker will also act as the Director of the Center on Human Development, and Director of the University Affiliated Facility Program on Research and Development.

The Faculty Club on campus is exhibiting Dar Ford—A Collage Work Exhibit through March 11, 9:30 to 3, at 1170 E. 13th.

Summer Camp Staff Recruitment is set for Feb 15, UO, from 9:30-3:30 in EMU, Room 167.
