Coming Up

May 7th there will be a Springfest of Willamalane Park activities including an Alternative Energy Faire. 8'x8' booth spaces will be available to promote, demonstrate, inform or sell different ways to enjoy spring in Springfield. There will be an Alternative Energy Tour which features visits to four Innovative Alternative Energy Sites in the Springfield area. The tour includes the Weyerhaeuser Cogeneration Facility, McKenzie-Willamette's Low Temperature Geothermal System as well as active and passive solar space and water heating systems. For free registration call 746-1669.

Maude Kerns Art Center's Ceramic Department is having its 10th annual Crack Pot Sale on Saturday, May 7, from 10 am-5 pm in the courtyard at the Maude Kerns Art Center. There will be bargains galore. This is a fundraiser to buy supplies for the department: everyone contributes all their seconds to the sale. 5¢ to $2 for seconds.

Keeping Up with the Kids in the 80's is the theme of the Spring Conference of the Oregon Association for the Education of Young Children set for May 7 at the Erb Memorial Union. The keynote address will be Dr. Betty Jones on the Joys and Risks of Raising and Teaching Young Children. There will be over 30 topics of interest for parent and teacher. Workshops will include: Singing Games for Young Voices, Encouraging Non-sexist Attitudes, Legal Aspects of Shared Care, Developmental Needs of Infants, Reading and Writing Readiness Skills, and more. Register by mail or in person: Christine Chaille, College of Education, UO, 686-4591 or Paul Ciminello, 344-2247. Childcare provided.

The 1983 Eugene Poetry Festival will unfold Mother's Day, May 8th at the WOW Hall. Musicians, theatre, films, untold surprises and woodsmiths galore will present eight hours of poetic festivities and cosmic foolery beginning at 4 pm. Presented by 3 local small presses—Coyote Press, Homunculus Press, and Silverfish Review—in conjunction with the CCPA, this event will be a showcase of local artists working in several mediums, providing a wide variety of traditional, homespun and experimental entertainment styled after the "Happenings" that accompanied the American avant-garde. Tickets in advance are $2.50 and are available at the WOW Hall, EMU, House of Records and Balladeer Music. Proceeds will go towards the formation of a Eugene Poetry Newsletter.

On Mother's Day, Zoo Zoo's is offering the proceeds of their business from 5-10 pm to the Lane County Citizens Council's newspaper. Treat Mom to dinner and help inform others who need to know what's happening in our state. W/C, 454 Willamette St., 344-4764.

Registration is now underway for the Senior Art Workshop Series and Senior Art Show and Sale sponsored by the Eugene Parks and Recreation Department. Workshops and sale are open to area seniors, 55 years and older. Six four-week workshops are scheduled to begin in May at Campbell Senior Center, 155 High Street, and include Shortcuts to Basic Drawing, Seascapes, Landscape Painting/Animals in Landscape, Watercolor, Art Around Us and Woodworking. Cost is $2.50 per workshop. Call Campbell Senior Center, 687-5318 for information on specific starting dates and times. Seniors participating in the workshop series may also exhibit and sell their artwork during Campbell Center's Senior Art Show and Sale, planned for June 18 from 10 am-4 pm. For further information about the workshop series or the art show and sale, call 687-5318.
