PROFILE

Treeshares A Self-Help Project

Treeshares is a new program devoted to the planting, tending and harvesting of fruit and nut trees and other edible perennials, such as blueberries and cane fruits, on private land. Current the project includes the Whiteaker, Westside, and Bethel Triangle neighborhoods, but will likely expand in the future.

Volunteers are now needed to begin organizing for the January and February pruning of trees which will be harvested in the fall. Fruits of the labor will be distributed to the volunteers, the providers of trees, low-income families and organizations.

Treeshares is sponsored by the Eugene Community Gardens Program, The Whiteaker Community Council, and Lane County VISTA Project. Several community organizations are joining together to facilitate this project, including the Eugene Tool Library and the County Extension Service, but most of Treeshares' active members will come from neighborhood residents, their associations, garden clubs, churches and cooperatives.

The first Treeshares workshop, which will concern the winter pruning of dormant trees, will be held at 1 pm on Sunday, Jan. 20, at the River House, located at 301 North Adams, Eugene. Potential members are strongly encouraged to attend this workshop, or if unable, to contact the Treeshares office, also at the River House, by this date.

For more information, or if you know of likely trees in your area, or if you have expertise or other resources to offer, please call Molly Widmer, Treeshares coordinator, at 687-5329. Donations to Treeshares are tax-deductible.
