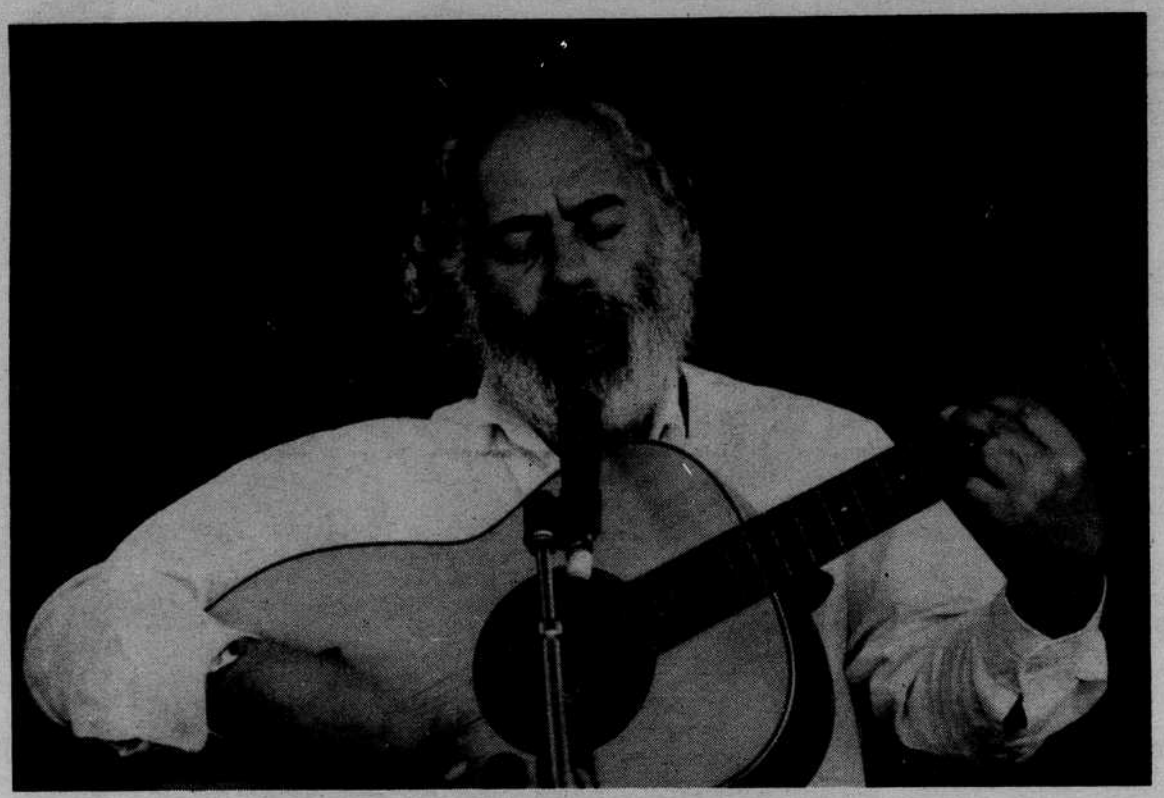
MUSIC



Shlomo Carlebach

Rabbi Shlomo Carlebach was born in pre-Nazi Germany into a most illustrious Jewish family. In 1939, his family fled to the U.S. and settled in New York City. Shlomo studied at the most prestigious Yeshivat in the U.S., including Lakewood, Lubavitch and Torah V'daas. He received his rabbinical ordination from the great Torah sage, Rabbi Isaac Hutner. Rabbi Carlebach also attended Columbia University and the New School where he studied Comparative Religion, Geology and Psychology.

Shlomo rose to stardom as a musician in the '60s, when his melodies touched thousands of alienated youngsters, as well as traditional Jews. In 1967, he founded "The House of Love and Prayer" in San Francisco, and in 1977 he started a settlement in Israel at Modian in the Judean Hills.

He currently resides in Israel several months a year and spends the remainder of his time on tour. He has two little girls aged seven and 10, whom he describes as "the soul of his soul." He'll be at the WOW Hall Saturday night.
