

Our disciplinarian, Mr. Smith, presided during the evening in his usual amiable, conscientious, dignified manner. The judges were Messrs. Kilpatrick, Smith and Gilmore, who had come out from Salem for the purpose. Mr. Kilpatrick, in a brief speech complimented the speakers of both societies so sincerely that the humiliation of defeat was scarcely felt.

After the debate a picture play entitled "The Last Chapter" was given. An author reviewing the last chapter of his novel before sending it to the publishers was impersonated by Ray White, while Collista Rainville, Isabel Talbot, James Evans, Ruther Jake and Gideon Hanbury cleverly preformed the various events of "The Last Chapter."

Both the Nonpareils and Excelsiors feel justly proud of the high order of the evenings entertainment.

This little play was one of the vaudeville numbers given at the Sara Bernhardt performances in Portland. It was written and adapted by Mrs. Brace to whom much of the credit for its successful performance is due.

THE CONVENTION AT EUGENE

It was the privilege of the newly-elected cabinet of the Y. W. C. A., Misses Katie Brewer, Lubova Siftsoff, Jeanette Buckles and Elizabeth Harkrider, accompanied by Miss Lecrone, to attend the Southern Willamette Conference held at the University of Oregon, Eugene, March 22-24.

Among the many able speakers addressing the conference were President Campbell of U. of O., Dean Patterson of Willamette University, Mrs. Seely of Portland, and our secretary, Miss Fox. At the Gearhart luncheon given in the Y. M. C. A. building on Saturday, Miss Jeanette Buckles responded to the toast, "Good Times at Gearhart."

Those who attended this convention enjoyed a delightful treat and came home filled with new enthusiasm and lofty purpose, both for their own lives and for the association at Chemawa.
