

Miss Lacrone with four of the Y. W. C. A. girls, Katie Brewer, Lubova Siftsoff, Jeanette Buckles and Elizabeth Harkrider, spent Saturday and Sunday at Eugene attending the Y. W. C. A. convention. They are enthusiastic over their trip, having passed an enjoyable and profitable time.

It is interesting to visit the Junior Y. M. C. A. Society, composed of thirty small boys under the supervision of Mrs. Brewer, who takes a motherly interest in the boys. The society is conducted in a business-like and orderly manner by the officers, who are small boys. Great credit is due Mrs. Brewer for the success of the society.

Mr. Saunders and his assistants have finished painting McBride Hall, doing a good job and causing it to look neat and clean throughout. Mrs. Theisz, the head matron and mother of the large girls, takes great pride in making McBride Hall homelike and attractive. In summer the yard surrounding the building is filled with the choicest roses, vines, and other flowers, which is under the supervision of Mrs. Theisz. It is one of the most attractive places on the grounds.

Frank Verigan, as principal for the affirmative, was assisted by Nick Hatch and Joseph Dunbar; while Maude Lowry, as negative principal, had for her colleagues Emma Shepard and Esther Spencer. Supt. Wadsworth presided as chairman of the evening.

Each side brought out many good points and showed considerable talent as orators, but the boys proved themselves a little more forceful as speakers than were the girls, so that the decision of the judges gave the honors of victory to the Reliance Society in their upholding of the affirmative side of the question.

The judges, who so kindly consented to come out from Salem to act in that capacity, were Mr. Ketchum, Mr. Minton and Mr. Gilbert; all of the
