

Normal Department

The beginners, all small children, have learned ten combinations in number work, perfectly, in six weeks. They have learned counting, grouping and writing numbers up to 30. In reading they have learned 35 new words, both in script and print, sounds of nine consonants and two phonograms. They read readily sentences composed of the words they have learned, spell and pronounce any word composed of the consonants and phonograms learned. The phonetic method is being used for the first time in this school, and is proving satisfactory. Miss Reidel, the normal teacher, is a graduate of Wisconsin Schools. She taught this method in that state for four years, and found it very successful.
