

several times in the past, spending a day every time, and if any of the teachers now there were teaching in the school three years ago they will probably remember me. Have visited schools of all kinds for 18 years, and, feel free to say that the one at Chemawa impressed me more favorably than any other have yet seen. I have frequently referred to it in my talks to schools, declaring it to be the most entertaining, the most useful, the most practical, the most instructive, and the best equipped for preparing the young to make a life of any yet found, and never more so than it appears to have been under your supervision.

Respectfully yours,
