RELIANCE LITERARY SOCIETY NOTES

The Reliance Literary Society held election last month and the following officers were elected: L. F. Paul, president; J. Rees, vice-president; W. S. Jackson, secretary; F. Isadore, treasurer; B. Hull, sergeant-at-arms; P. Fontaine, assistant sergeant-at-arms; Michael MacLeod, reporter.

The spirit of the society shows a marked improvement. It is evident that each member takes a keen interest in making each meeting a success. As a result each member realizes his relationship to the society. At a later time those who absolutely refuse to take a part in the literary work proper, except on occasions when public entertainments or social functions take place, will be dropped from the rolls to make room for those who will make use of their opportunities.

The society feels that the loyalty demonstrated is but the offspring of the same attitude toward the school.

The society gave their annual reception at the gymnasium on the evening of the 22nd of November. After the dance refreshments were served. All reported a very pleasant evening. The presidents and vice-presidents of all societies were the guests of the evening. The president of each society gave a short talk to those present.

At the first meeting following the reception the society gave a vote of thanks to the Misses Katie and Sara Brewer for their kind assistance during and before the reception.—MICHAEL MACLEOD, Reporter.

NONPAREIL SOCIETY

The Nonpareil Society held its first meeting in the Auditorium on the evening of November 20th. The society was fortunate in having Mr. Kilpatrick from the Salem High School present to speak on society work. Those present were much interested in what he had to say, and mean to profit by his advice. Following his talk came the program. All numbers were heartily encored, particularly the Indian play and song led by Annie Jackson.
