WHOSE PHOTOGRAPH?

His general appearance is suggestive of the military. His carriage is erect and his shoulders are square. He has a habit of walking about the grounds with one hand in his pocket and the other swinging by his side. His hair is black, sprinkled with gray. His eyes are brown and they often gleam with kindly sympathy. He wears glasses. His manners are pleasant. He wears a blue serge suit for every day, and a long tailed coat with a white vest and gray trousers for Sundays.

OUR THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving for the year 1913 will be remembered by the students of the school as one of the best and most enjoyable celebrations in the history of the institution. Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving the students rendered an excellent program in the auditorium, consisting of recitations, instrumental and vocal music. The program appears in another column.

The menu for Thanksgiving dinner was roast chicken with gravy and dressing, cranberries, mashed potatoes, bread and butter, coffee, fruit, mince and pumpkin pie, nuts and candy. The dining-room, which was remodeled within the last year, was prettily decorated by the dining-hall girls, under the direction of Miss Skipton.

In the afternoon the students witnessed a football game between the Alaskan boys and Oregon and Washington boys. The game was played in a sea of mud, which enabled the "clam diggers" to defeat the "seals" by a score of 26 to 0. The day closed with one of those social functions which old and young enjoy, the evening being spent in dancing. At 10:30 the happy throng departed for quarters, assured of the fact that this year was the banner celebration in the school's history.
