

A GOOD REMINDER

President Willson's message says that he wants railroads through Alaska, and we Alaskans are glad, because he has mentioned Alaska to Congress. He says that Alaska is a store house shut up and the only way to open it is by building a railroad through it; and I know that everybody in Alaska would be glad.

There are gold mines, coal mines, marble mines, copper mines, timber, fur, and many other things, that could be improved and worked better if there were railroads to help carry on the work.—JULIA GROMOFF, Fifth Grade.

RELIGIOUS WORK

The religious work at the school is being carried on very successfully. The Protestant children are under the supervision of Rev. R. M. Kennedy, who assumed charge of this work last spring. Mr. Kennedy is a man of broad experience, and is well educated, being a graduate of Harvard University.

The Catholic students have regular instruction under the supervision of Rev. Father Gall, O. S. B., of Mt. Angel. Father Gall has been closely connected with the school for more than a year. Chemawa is fortunate in having two such able men in charge of the religious work.

FROM THE GRADES

7th

James Greeley, who entered this school from Warm Springs, is pleased with conditions here. He entered the Fifth Grade. He works in the shop with Tillman Holliquilla, Ollie Culups, and Hiram Smith, who are also from Warm Springs.

The little baby at Mr. and Mrs. Clardy's is growing nicely and will soon be as cunning as any of the children on the grounds. Her name is Helen.

The new silo is almost ready for use. This convenience in handling grain will help the dairymen a great deal.

The gardeners have been busy of late digging potatoes.

The tailors are more than busy making uniforms, basketball trousers, and repairing clothing for pupils. Mr. McLean is the new tailor. His ability and thoroughness are appreciated by the boys who work with him.
