

RELIANCE LITERARY SOCIETY

The entertainment given by the Reliance Literary Society January 8 was enjoyed by the student body and faculty. The selections presented were excellent and well rendered. The musical numbers of the program are deserving of especial mention and reflect great credit on those taking part. The reading of Hiawatha by Louis Paul was pleasing, the beautiful thought suggested by the poet being clearly shown. The applause and appreciation of the program in the way of a yell given by the Excelsior Society was appreciated by the Reliance. Louis Paul, president of the Reliance Society, deserves credit for the able manner in which the program was rendered and presented. Several boys who made an appearance on the stage for the first time did well in the rendition of their parts. Below is the program:

Opening Address	- - - -	President of Society
Hawaiian Song	- - - -	William J. Campbell
Clarinet Solo	- - - -	Eugene Geffe
- - - -	- - - -	Miss Brewer, Accompanist
Recitation	- - - -	Archie Russie
Selection	- - - -	Reliance Band
Recitation—Curfew Shall not Ring Tonight	- -	John Johansen
Vocal Duet	- - - -	William Jackson and Louis Paul
Recitation—The Black Horse and Its Rider	-	Jerry Rees
Vocal Solo	- - - -	William Jackson
Recitation	- - - -	William J. Campbell
Clarinet Duet	- - - -	Wm. Jackson and Eugene Geffe
Music	- - - -	Reliance Quartet
Reading—"Hiawatha"	- - - -	Louis Paul
Selection	- - - -	Reliance Band
Closing Number	- - - -	Society Song

ACADEMIC NOTES

The "Gym" was the scene of merry-making and fun on Christmas eve when the student body assembled to participate in the treat made ready for them. "Merry Christmas" in large green letters greeted them as they entered the "Gym". Two large Christmas trees were on the stage, filled with presents for the small children and long tables on either side held presents for older students and employees. A real chimney, with stockings hanging up, and "Santa Claus" came clamoring down with a pack on his back, was the delight of the little ones. He filled the stockings up to the brim and shook hands with the little ones and left presents for all. He was a jolly old fellow and promised