

The basketball season is over. The track is next to attract our attention. About seventy boys will enter the team. The first try-out took place on the fourteenth of March and Captain Jim selected the men for the permanent team. Captain Jim has been a member of the track team about four years and he knows when he sees men who are capable. The baseball season opens soon. We had a very good team last year.

The little girls in the sewing room are getting along nicely and improving every day. They have a big rag doll and are learning how to make clothes for it, and they seem greatly interested.

We, the tailors, are nearly through making coats for the band boys. We all hope that they will be pleased with their new coats.

Mrs. Theisz, the McBride Hall matron, has moved her office to the Small Girl's Home and Mrs. Wadsworth is matron of McBride Hall. The girls like her very well. The small girls are glad to have Mrs. Theisz in their building.

Mr. Mitchell and his boys are busy cutting the hedges down on the boys' side. I think they will cut them down on the girls' side also. Some of the fir trees by the office are also being cut down.

On the evening of the 21st of February the band went to Gervais, Oregon, to give a concert. The Gervais High School gave a short play, "A Midnight Dream," After the program the band played for a dance which lasted till half-past one o'clock.

The boys have finished quite a number of sets of harness and have not much room in the shop for many more sets. We sent one set of harness to Washington and we sold a set a few days ago and hope to sell some more.

Angus McCloud, Edward Clint, and Oscar Luddington were here visiting friends and relatives last week. Their home is in Montana.

Last Thursday Petroleum Barrett gave the Nut-Crackers a good talk.

Mr. Larsen of Nushagak, Alaska, came here to visit his sons, Fred and Andrew Larsen.

We are glad to see that our band is doing better than ever this year. The band plays mornings and evenings at flag salute, and at the moving picture shows, and dances, and occasionally gives a Sunday concert. The anniversary of the band is on March 17th, but as that is a school day it will be celebrated on the 21st of March.
