

Loulin Brewer is now engaged at nightwatching here.

Rev. Carl H. Elliott, the Presbyterian minister of Salem, was a visitor at Chemawa during a recent Sunday.

Four members of the State Reform School faculty visited at Chemawa on April 5th. They were delighted with all that they saw at Chemawa.

Mr. J. H. Blair of Newport, Oregon, visited Chemawa recently. He is an uncle of Miss Skipton, and although 82 years of age, is a remarkably well preserved gentleman.

Prof. Walter M. Smith, superintendent of public instruction of Marion Co., and G. H. Patterson, Ph. D., of Willamette University have addressed our general assemblies in a most able manner on a couple of recent Sunday evenings.

Miss Bessie K. May arrived at Chemawa recently and entered upon her duties as matron for the McBride Hall girls. Miss May at one time was employed at the Tulalip (Wash.) school and has had such experience in the service as to make her a valuable person to Chemawa. We extend a cordial welcome to her.

William Ready has secured the splendid Hornsteiner violin which for a long time was the property of Ruthyn Turney. It is a rare old instrument of exquisite tone and carrying power, the work of Martin Hornsteiner of the year 1790. Another musical note of interest is that Chemawa is now the home of one of the famous double basses of the world. It was made in Rotterdam, Holland, in the year 1648, by Joseph Wrent. For more than 30 years it was played in the famous Philharmonic Orchestra of New York by Mr E. H. Straubel. Mr. Turney secured it of Mr. Straubel recently.
