

One of the great demands of a person is to maintain a standard of education. Who is a thoroughly cultivated man and woman? Is there a standard for the personality that is to go into active life in a busy world from classroom with the sure marks of well-educated hands and mind? He has a right to lift up his own standard and say what he thinks are the best ideals and methods for his training.

When a man goes out into the world with readiness for hard work, eager to serve his fellow man, his heart is pure and his hands clean; as he stands forth in his strength an educated man, what are the distinguishing marks that he bears in his character and life? He cannot stop short of the religious ultimate as he seeks the finest and strongest element of life of a truly cultivated man. It is only the christian conception of life, after all, that is safe and that has no bitter dissatisfaction or disaster.—PAUL KINNINOOK.

ATHLETICS

A BRIEF SUMMING UP BY MR. SMITH, Disciplinarian

Chemawa won an easy victory over Mt. Angel College on the home grounds on April 18, by the score of 14 to 2. McDonald pitched a splendid game. This feature coupled with the fielding and heavy hitting of the entire team brought about the easy victory.

A return game was played on the Mt. Angel campus on April 22nd. It was anybody's game from start to finish. Lane, the first man to bat, sent the first ball pitched over the hill for a home run. Then Adams came to bat and followed the example set by Lane.

In the second inning the collegians tied the score. Lane featured in the fourth inning with a three-base hit; R. Adams made a home run in the sixth. Mt. Angel tied in the eighth. Two extra innings were needed to break the ice. Mt. Angel sent in a pinch hitter after two men were out in the eleventh. Two strikes and three balls were called on him, then he connected for a clean circuit, giving his team the victory.

O. A. C. stopped off on their return from Seattle on April 27th and handed Chemawa a 9 to 0 defeat on a muddy field.

McDonald worked very good in the box and had the support of the infield, but the outfield were not in the game, hence the shut-out score. However it was a good game considering the heavy rain. Moreland, the spitball artist, was the feature of the game and was the undoing of the local team.
