

Not long ago Supt. Symons brought a party of children to Chemawa from Owyhee, Nev. The children are from the Western Shoshone school.

Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Page arrived at Chemawa on October 8 from Round Valley, California, in charge of a party of children for enrollment here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson have gone on transfer to the San Juan agency in New Mexico, where they have positions in connection with one of the day schools.

Miss Lucile Fitzgerald was recently transferred from Blackfoot, Montana, to Chemawa, where she is assured that she is a very welcome addition to our academic staff of teachers.

A fine new direct-current combined engine and dynamo has arrived for installation at the power house. It is of such large proportions that it will take some little time to get it in commission.

Wm. Minor and wife of North Yakima, Wash., were numbered among our recent visitors. Mr. Minor is a former graduate of Chemawa and his successes are a source of genuine pride to all of us. At present he is engaged in the tailoring business and is doing well.

Four hundred and twenty-two years ago on October 12th Christopher Columbus discovered America. In Oregon and many other states Oct. 12 is a legal holiday in honor of the occasion. In many places in Oregon this year the date was observed with due ceremony.

Our students attended the State Fair at Salem en masse on the opening day. Chemawa was in evidence with a very attractive booth and great interest was displayed as regards it. It was a most attractive fair in every way and had the weather been more favorable part of the time it would have proved a still greater success.

From Dr. Chas. M. Buchanau, superintendent at the Tulalip Indian reservation, we have received an item relative to a sale of timber on that reservatiou, which is of immense importance to the Indian people thereof, as it is a $1,000,000 deal. The item follow: With only two firms bidding, both of these located at Everett, the largest timber deal in the Northwest in a long time was consummated when 400,000,000 feet of standing timber in the western part of the Tulalip reservation, the property of the Indians, was sold at auction. The price paid involves $1,000,000. A. W. White, representing an association of himself, Roland Hartley and S. H. Miller known as the Everett Logging Company, was the successful bidder. He paid $4.50 per thousand feet for cedar, $3.87 per thousand feet for fir, spruce and white pine, and $1 per thousand for hemlock and all other timber.
