A FINE RECEPTION FOR PLAYERS

ON March 6th, there took place, in the auditorium, a ceremony which will be remembered for many years to come by the students and employees of Chemawa. A program of this ceremony is printed on another page of this issue. On that date Chemawa celebrated the successes of its athletic teams, and the association presented the certificates and athletic insignia to those who made the various teams. The stage was nicely decorated and the auditorium was filled to its utmost capacity.

After a splendid march by our band, Dr. Leo J. Frachtenberg gave a resume of the basketball season, describing in glowing terms the achievements of the teams and the glory brought upon Chemawa by their playing. Superintendent Wadsworth then told the audience of the co-operation and help which the school expected to render in the near future to the Athletic Association. Afterwards Chemawa's sweet singer, John V. Adams, rendered a song which was more than appreciated by the audience. Adams had to repeat the song in order to appease the clamoring students. Dr. Frachtenberg then awarded the insignia first. The ceremony was highly impressive.

As their names were called out, each boy ascended the stage, where he was given his certificate amid profound silence which was followed by hand-clapping and appropriate cheers. The record of every boy was read. After the football boys received their certificates, Dr. Frachtenberg called for the basketball players. In view of the splendid work done by them, each man was awarded, in addition to the certificate, a handsome red jersey with a white block C. Mr. Gillett, treasurer of the Association, gave them a corking good talk on how to support athletics. He was listened to attentively and his efforts were awarded with thundering applause. Not less appreciation was shown to Alma Nelson for her song, which was rendered with unusual feeling and accomplishment. Mrs. Nannie M. Willis, the head matron, was given the task of awarding the certificates to the bracketball girls. Each girl was awarded a certificate and a blue serge middie with a red block C. Mrs. Willis' remarks were listened to attentively and received with cheers.

After a splendid selection by the band, Mr. E. A. Smith spoke on "Discipline and Athletics". His remarks were well chosen and appropriate. The celebration was concluded with another speech by Dr. Leo J. Frachtenberg, the manager of the Association, who appealed to
