

OLD STUDENTS WELCOME TO THE NEW

On Saturday evening, the 30th, our old students gave a rousing welcome to our newcomers in the form of an informal social in the gymnasium. Each old student was sponsor to a new student and put forth every effort to see that their "sponserettes" became acquainted and had partners for every number. It was gratifying to see how the girls unselfishly turned over their partners to their charges.

Sandwiches, coffee and ice-cream cones were sold by the athletic association and before the evening was over everything was "sold out." Both the old and new students expressed themselves as enjoying the evening greatly. Our monthly socials in the gymnasium are eagerly looked forward to by Chemawa pupils.

OBSERVATIONS

Florence Lindell of Glacier Park, Montana, has entered the Capital Business College in Salem.

Plans are being made to commence rehearsals soon for the Thanksgiving program. Miles Standish will be presented.

Mrs. Teabo, who has charge of the school bakery and one of Chemawa's valued employes, is a graduate of this school.

Outlines are being printed in attractive book form for use of pupils and instructors in both academic and industrial departments.

Mrs. Katie Cunningham, nee Katie LaBonte, who graduated at Chemawa in 1899, enrolled her daughter Catherine the other day.

The student body had an enthusiastic rally last Thursday night practicing songs and yells for the Chemawa-O. A. C. football game.

The Domestic Science girls under directions of Miss Taylor have been unusually busy the past week canning corn for use of the student body.

Mrs. Clark of the Teachers' Club has been on the sick list, necessitating the employment of a substitute. We are glad, however, to report her recovered and on duty again.

Mr. Hammond has arranged for a short program once each week for the two divisions at the school assemblies to be rendered by the various literary societies in rotation. The Nonpareils have charge during the present week.

The school silo is now full of ensilage. Corn grown on thirty-four acres of land has been cut and run through the mill into the silo, thus insuring ample ensilage for the dairy herd this year. Both barns are full to overflowing with good hay for our 17 head of horses as well as the herd of dairy stock. There are over 2,000 bushels of splendid oats in the bins also, all grown and harvested on the school ranch.

About 165 of the Chemawa boys and girls were out from the school during a portion of September, picking hops and thereby earning not a little sum of money for their personal use during the year. Hoppicking is a custom on part of the students which commenced many years ago. It enables the pupils to secure an outing and earn needed money at the same time. Mr. Jaquins accompanied the boys to the Jones' hopyard, where a camp was established, and had charge of the work as well as acting as disciplinarian and care taker of the boys while there. The girls slept at the school and went to and fro each day. Hoppicking time is always eagerly looked forward to by the pupils. Mrs. Perkins chaperoned the girls.
