

HALLOWEEN PARTY

One of the prettiest as well as the most enjoyable social affairs given this year was the Halloween party given by the older students last Saturday evening. The gymnasium was transformed into a veritable autumn bower; bunches of bright colored leaves covered the ceiling while festoons of leaves and jack-o'-lanterns stretched around the hall; pumpkins and shocks of corn covered each corner.

The music was furnished by the school orchestra and everyone was loud in praise of the splendid music rendered. As the last number was given all lights were extinguished save those of the many jack-o'-lanterns, and it would be hard to find a prettier sight than that of the myriads of autumn leaves falling gently all over the hall from unseen spots above. We are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Loos and their boys for the beautiful decorations.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Henry Elk is now trying out at center.

Anderson was used at right guard yesterday.

Beyers' work at center is improving daily and he may win the position over Elk.

Several of the boys received minor bruises in the game Saturday, but all were out to practice Monday excepting Peter Dick.

The boys are working hard and earnestly every day and expect to show a different game against Pacific University next Saturday.

The football boys seem not at all discouraged over last Saturday's defeat for they realize that it takes time and hard practice to make a good team.

Glenn S. Warner, brother of our coach, has just signed a contract to coach the University of Pittsburg for the next four years. His team defeated Pennsylvania, Saturday, 20-0.

A fine new bucking machine, made in the carpenter shop, made its first appearance on the field yesterday and will be a great help to the coaches in developing a quick-charging line,

PUPILS' NEWS ITEMS

The eighth grade has been solving problems in concrete work.

Water and beverages are themes for instruction in the domestic science department.

Perry Whipple is chosen as one of the actors in the Miles Standish play Thanksgiving.

Effie Davis leads the seventh grade class, while George Berry is a close second.

The Winona Society gave the weekly program on October 22. The Reliance comes next.

We are glad to welcome Franklin Perry and Felicia Hostler back to grade four after several days absence.

A flourishing Y. W. C. A. of about 30 of the girls from Winona Hall has just been organized. Their colors are purple and white.

Two of the fourth graders appeared on the roll of honor. Their classmates are quite proud of them. There will be more of the fourth next month. Watch us.

Frank C. Johnson was a visitor at the Y. M. C. A. at Salem last Sunday and reports a warm welcome from the members. He also attended the Methodist church while in town.

The sewing room girls are very much interested in their work. The lectures given by Miss Mitchell with reference to the different fabrics made from vegetable fibers are very instructive.

A "SPOOKY" PARTY

"I know something I won't tell, hidden in this peanut shell." Thus was the curiosity of the bidden guests whetted so they eagerly opened the peanut in which the following invitation was hidden:

Pray, once be not so proud,
But come and join our merry crowd;
At not too great a task,
Come hid behind a saucy mask.
Ghosts, witches, owls, and cats,
Smith's is where we'll all be at
From eight to ten o'clock
Complete will be our flock,
'on Halloween.'
Escort a mate and sit beside 'er,
Make fun, and sip a lot of cider;
We'll eat some fruit, and crack some nuts,
So bring a nickle's worth of nuts."

About thirty-five guests gathered at the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Smith last Tuesday evening and enjoyed an evening that was chuck full of fun and novelties. Autumn leaves, jack-o'-lanterns, and pumpkins enhanced the already pervading Halloween atmosphere.

One jolly game followed another; fortunes were told by reading cards; all were eager to find out, by rings suspended in the archways, how many years would pass before marriage would overtake them; the initial of the future mate was discovered by letters carved in pumpkins. Music and readings were mingled in with the jollity.

Delicious refreshments of cider, doughnuts, apples, salad, cocoa, punch and assorted nuts were served. The evening was a delightful affair and everyone enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.