

PUPILS' ITEMS

The school choir, under Mrs. McCrosson, commenced practice last Thursday.

The painters have completed painting the interior work of Mr. Hammond's quarters.

Mrs. Clark, cook in the teachers' club, returned last Saturday from a few weeks' vacation.

The horticulture boys are making ready to prune the orchard and to do a good deal of grafting.

The prevocational carpenters have nearly completed the nifty little garage for the Superintendent.

Mr. Pendergrass returned on Wednesday from a hunting trip. He brought back some delicious venison.

The industrial teacher and a force of boys have arranged to start in clearing the timber off the 30-acre hog lot.

The 8th grade in arithmetic are still working in concrete, building a floor for the tennis court and base of a silo.

Dr. Dickason, field dentist, has examined and worked on the teeth of nearly 300 of the Chemawa students.

The farm detail is busy these days ploughing and getting ready to sow oats and vetch for the next season's hay crop.

The approaching presidential election is of much interest to the students. The eighth graders have been studying about the electors.

The eighth grade listened to an interesting talk given by Martin Colby on the care of an orchard, last Thursday. Martin works on the orchard detail.

Mrs. Culbertson is in receipt of a nice letter from Marie Poulin, Zortman, Montana, in which she says she is well and doing nicely as a waitress in a boarding house.

Both division of boys and girls at Chemawa are securing regular gymnastic exercises in the school gym. Miss Brewer presides at the piano and Mr. Smith is in charge.

Marguerite Rainville, an old student of Chemawa, is attending a training school for nurses at Walla Walla, Washington. She is making good progress and is now in the Junior year.

John Murray of the eighth grade not only takes much interest in his vocational training as engineer, but also shows by the averages in the academic work that he is interested in such studies.

Charles J. Eder, who has been visiting in Alaska, is with us again this year. He not only is taking up commercial work, but interests himself in all that is good. He is one of the strong players on the "varsity" team.

Bob Downie is quarterback on the second team. His team holds the "varsity" to a standstill occasionally.

George Nix, one of our football huskies, has so far recovered from an injury to his leg that he is on the field again for a workout.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

The detail in the tailor shop are making aprons and caps for the dairy boys.

Mr. Sanders and his painters are doing some painting in the small boys' home.

The demonstration table in the domestic science kitchen is being enameled.

The carpenter boys are working on some much needed additions to Winona Hall.

George Lekanoff is making good progress in the carpenter shop. Mr. Woods speaks well of all his boys.

Mrs. Doherty speaks very highly of Joe Bonner and Moses Shawn who are on her house detail in Brewer Hall.

Thomas Bull in Sight, a vocational student in the shoe and harness-making department, is doing very well indeed.

The second year vocational girls in the dressmaking department have completed the uniform skirts for the first company.

Ivan Anderson, a vocational carpenter student, is one of the most trustworthy and competent boys in that department.

Lewis Tellier is doing good work in the bakery department. Mrs. Teabo says he is getting to be quite a proficient biscuit maker.

Edward Gilbeau has just started on a citizen's suit. Edward is a vocational tailor and is doing all the work on his suit from the cutting to sewing.

The girls in the dining room are very much interested in the lectures given by Miss Skipton this week on vegetables and different kinds of bread.

Mr. Swoboda and his detail are putting up twenty-one sets of harness to be sent to different reservations in New Mexico, Arizona, California and Oregon.

Eight new ironing boards have been set up in the laundry. The cement work was done by Mr. Carrow and his boys, while the carpenter boys, under Mr. Woods, completed the rest of the work.

The primary sewing department are busy as usual patching, mending and darning. They are at present patching kitchen aprons. Mrs. Culbertson speaks in very complimentary terms of Lizzie Mason and Bertha Lee.