

LOCAL LORE

Mrs. Pendergrass spent last Tuesday in Portland.

Mrs. Doherty had Christmas dinner with friends in Salem.

Mrs. Newlove and son Carter spent the holidays in Tacoma.

Mrs. McCrosson spent Christmas with friends in Portland.

Frazier Mecum from Portland was a holiday visitor at Chemawa.

Mrs. Levilo Herrold was a visitor at Chemawa on New Year's day.

Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. White spent Christmas day with their children here.

Miss Georgina Clark and Miss Jones have been spending the week with Mrs. Clark.

Miss Ethel Merriam, a teacher in the high school in Salem, spent Sunday with Celestia Brace.

Supt. Wm. B. Freer, of Klamath Agency, visited Chemawa a couple of days last week and was a guest of Supt. and Mrs. Hall while here.

Miss Skipton gave a New Year's dinner last Monday. Her guests were Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Teabo, Miss White, Miss McCauley, Mrs. Brewer and Misses Gertrude, Ella, Sara and Ruth Brewer.

The Christmas spirit reigned throughout Chemawa. In addition to the decorations reported elsewhere in this issue, the nine class-rooms as well as the hospital were tastefully attired in holiday attire.

Mr. Woods remembered his large detail of carpenter boys last Saturday by giving them a treat in the shape of "good eats" in his shop. It has been Mr. Woods' custom at Christmas time each year to show his appreciation of the boys' good work by serving them a bountiful repast.

Much friendly rivalry was shown in the basketball games during the holiday week. The Gardners vs. Printers played one afternoon and the Chemawa Juniors vs. the Indian boys who attend the the Junior High School at Salem played another afternoon. The Printers and the Chemawa Juniors were the winners.

The detail boys of Mitchell Hall were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Loos at a dinner party given in the readingroom of that building on Thursday. Supt. and Mrs. Hall were invited guests. The table was artistically decorated and laden with the kind of "goodies" to please the small boys. Mrs. Loos is constantly giving pleasure to her detail of boys and they seem to appreciate it very much.

The little mending and darning girls of the primary sewing department were made unusually happy on Wednesday afternoon by their sewing teacher, Mrs. Culbertson. She had prepared a well filled Christmas tree and had invited the little girls to visit the sewing-room where they thought they were to make doll clothes, and great was their delight in finding that preparation had been made to distribute presents to each child. Supt. Hall was requested by Mrs. Culbertson to act as Santa Claus in distributing the presents. It was a jolly little crowd and a happy one.

Mrs. Blessing spent New Year's day at Chemawa.

Andy Walker, a Chemawa graduate, visited here last week.

Special Agent Flanders paid Chemawa a visit on Tuesday.

Mr. Hammond and family ate their Christmas dinner in Salem.

Dr. Fulkerson from Warm Springs visited Chemawa the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pendergrass took Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Woods.

Willie Service, a brother of Robert Service, spent several days here during the holidays.

Julia Fratis returned to Chemawa, Tuesday, from Portland, where she had been visiting friends.

Supt. and Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Jaquins were guests of Mrs. McCrosson for New Year's dinner at the Club.

Miss Merna Bunnell and Miss Ella Bennett, from Salem, were guests of Miss Sara Brewer during the past week.

Mrs. Jaquins entertained Miss Evelyn Woods, Misses Sarah and Ruth Brewer at dinner on Wednesday evening.

Patsy Barrett spent several days last week at Chemawa visiting his brother George as well as renewing old friendships with his former schoolmates.

Chemawa was victorious in three basketball games on Friday night before Christmas. The first team played the strong athletic club team at Silverton, winning by a score of 51 to 34. The second team journeyed to Rickreall and won from the town team, score 21 to 16. The Junior team easily defeated the Salem Athletic Club team with a score of 37 to 9, playing in our gymnasium.

Supt. and Mrs. Hall entertained in their home on Saturday evening about seventy members of the band, orchestra and choir, together with the cast of the "Christmas House Party," accompanied by their instructors. Clever guessing games or contests were prepared and entered into with much merriment and zest. Prizes of miniature musical instruments were given to the successful contestants. While the guests were being served refreshments in relays in the dining room, the others gathered in the music room and sang Chemawa songs. A very happy evening was spent by all

MASQUE CARNIVAL

The holiday season with its round of pleasure could not have ended in a more enjoyable way than with the Masque Carnival given in the gymnasium on New Year's night. Fun and frolic reigned supreme as all Chemawa attired as clowns, hoboes, cow girls, Indian maidens, Japanese geishas, etc., mingled in jollity. Many clever costumes were in evidence and we feel that all are to be congratulated on the great success of the evening. Mr. Brown and his orchestra furnished the music.
