

LOCALS

Gertrude Todd proved herself to be a most efficient sergeant in the dining hall.

There is a force of men remodeling the Southern Pacific depot in front of the school.

Miss Wedge and Miss Esther Taylor were dinner guests of Mrs. Jaquins on Friday evening.

Mrs. Storm, who has been ill for some days, is about her duties again.

The young men of Mitchell Hall, and young ladies of McBride Hall, deserve credit for the tidy appearance of their rooms.

The domestic science classes are very proud of the charts showing the different cuts of meats, which were so excellently drawn by Mamie Frisk.

A visitor to the many industrial departments from 7:30 to 8 each morning will find an interested lot of pupils taking part in the industrial lectures.

Miss Skipton is very much pleased with the improvement the girls have made in marching into the dining room as well as remaining quiet until after grace.

The combination exercises at the weekly meeting of the student body and employees was omitted on Sunday evening. Dr. Wedge gave an illustrated lecture on the life of Jesus Christ.

Roller skating on the part of the pupils over the cement walks has not been practiced since the cold weather has set in. Indeed, the boys skated on the ice while the lake was frozen over. Alex Melovidov exhibited some good skating.

Miss Jessamine Hodgson arrived last week from Fort Berthold, North Dakota, to fill the place of teacher recently left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Risser. Miss Hodgson finds our winter delightful after leaving the severe cold of North Dakota and was greatly surprised to see our campus so green. We welcome Miss Hodgson and hope she will find Chemawa, as well as her work, pleasant.

Miss Esther Taylor, daughter of W. E. Taylor, former assistant superintendent and principal here, spent the week-end at Chemawa. She was the guest of Mrs. Jaquins on Friday and Saturday and of Miss Flint on Sunday. Miss Taylor remained in Salem this year in order to graduate from the Willamette University. She expects to join her parents at Bismarck, North Dakota, where her father is superintendent, immediately after her graduation.

Mrs. Jaquins gave a small "movie" party Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Wedge. Miss Esther Taylor and Miss Ruth Spoor were included in the party. The young people attended the performance at the Oregon Theater and later had light refreshments at the Gray-Belle. Miss Wedge and Mrs. Jaquins are Sorority sisters, Miss Wedge of Tufts College, Boston, and later graduating from Vassar, and Mrs. Jaquins of Stanford University.

The Y. M. C. A. had a fine meeting on Sunday evening. The topic was "The Rewards of Religion." It was a topic that was quite interesting to all present. The program was as follows: Leader's Talk, Nick Hatch; The Rewards of a Happy Heart, Frank Johnson; The Reward of a Useful Life, Henry Davis; The Reward of a Good Reputation, Fred Karluk; The Reward of a Strong Character, Robert Service; Recognition of Goodness, Joe Gale. Quotations and Bible verses.

The assembly exercises at the opening of school on Monday morning and afternoon, were rendered by the Reliance Society. The program consisting of, Gettysburg Address, Wade Minthorn; Solo, Clyde Fields; Recitation, Irving Gray; Euphonium Solo, William Walters; Recitation, James Crane; Recitation, Raymond Grey, was given in the morning, and the following program given in the afternoon: Recitation, Albert Gray; Vocal Solo, Clyde Fields; Piano Solo, Lawrence Taylor; Recitation, James Crane. Both programs were well rendered. Joseph Gale acted as chairman.

PUPILS' NEWS ITEMS

The Seventh grade class had a debate on the question, "Which is more beneficial to mankind, Industrial training or Academic training?" Affirmative, Louis Van Pelt, Louis Tillier; Negative, Thelma Orson, Peter Hatch. The affirmative side won.

Marguerite Chamberlin and Hattie Cleveland gave a birthday party Monday evening. They served delicious refreshments, played games, told stories, and had a jolly good time. The guests who attended were, Jessie and Lena Cleveland, Agnes Stewart, Julia Mills, and Almira Hammond.

The vocational first year domestic science class served a five-course meal Friday morning, Anna Sexton acting as hostess and Lottie Wilson as host. Effie Davis assisted with the cooking, while Ruby White acted as waitress. Each girl did her part exceedingly well. The menu was as follows: Vegetable soup, beefsteak, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, banana salad, lemon pie, butter, coffee and cream.

Mr. Blessing recently gave a surprise party to all his vocational boys. The boys thought that he had summoned them to give them a lecture. They found, however, the office all fixed up with good eats for them. The party enjoyed several speeches. The engineering boys are ambitious to complete their trade and they are accomplishing much by the aid of Mr. Blessing, who is a fine instructor.