The masons are constructing a railing around the lawn and flower section in front of the dining hall to protect the grass and flowers.

Mrs. Clark, of the teachers' club, has resigned her position to take up work in Montana. She has made many friends at Chemawa who dislike to see her go.

Mr. Daly now has a force of boys at work clearing and ploughing a four-acre tract near the Pacific Highway. This piece of land has lain idle for some years.

Robert Service was called home last week on account of the death of his brother. Much sympathy is expressed for Robert. He is a popular and worthy young man.

The employes held the monthly social meeting in the gym on Monday evening. Cocoa and wafers were served. Mrs. Estabrook, Mrs. McCrosson and Mr. Smith is the committee for February.

Dr. Wedge and family left Chemawa on Tuesday for Sherman Institute at Riverside, California. The student body as well as employes enjoyed their stay at Chemawa and regret their departure.

It is unlawful to sell any intoxicating liquor in the State of Oregon; it is also unlawful for any transportation company to bring any into the state. Oregon is now called a "bone-dry" state.

Mr. and Mrs. Brace gave Doctor and Mrs. Wedge and Miss Ruth a delightful drive to the various state institutions and other places of interest around Salem on Sunday afternoon in their new 7-passenger touring car.

The school campus has been disfigured to no little extent on account of trenches made necessary to lay the new sewer. Work is begun, however, to puddle the earth and thus permit the surface to resume its natural appearance again.

The vocational domestic science class of girls, about 30 in number, visited E. C. Cross & Sons Meat Market in Salem on Tuesday. The proprietors went to great pains to give the class minute explanations in regard to the various cuts of meat. Miss Taylor, the domestic science teacher, accompanied the class and reports a very profitable visit.

The stringed instrument quartet, composed of Fred Cardin, Alex Melovidov, William Palin and Willie Reddie, visited Portland on Saturday and listened to the concert given by the world-famous Flonzaley String Quartet in the Heilig theater. At the conclusion of the concert the young men were presented to the various members of this famous quartet. They returned on the midnight Oregon Electric flier.

On Saturday night the second team contested the strong Scio team and won by a score of 53 to 21. The boys report a good time, as they were entertained by the Scio players royally. The game was cleanly played and the best team won. Our team consisted of: Martin Colby, guard; George Nix, guard; Charles Eder, center; Hartley Williams, forward; Robert Downie, forward; James Crane, sub. Reggie Downie went in charge of the team.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. held a joint meeting last Sunday evening. The topic was of great interest to every one present—"True Beauty and how to get It." Leona John was the leader. Short talks were given by the following: "What Beauty Is," Nick Hatch; "Beauty in Nature," Agnes Swanson; "Beauty in Art," Jacob Mynuk; "Beauty of Character," Frank Johnson; "Beauty Worth Attaining," Nellie Metcalf; "Beauty that Lasts," Arelius Talbot.

The teacher of agriculture, Mr. Daly, is employed about three hours each day during the present detail, giving lectures to the various prevocational and vocational classes in the several subjects called for in the new course. He is a busy man, but seems equal to the occasion. He is a good manager and seldom sends two or three boys to do one boy's work, which is so often times noticed in school work. Consequently the maximum amount of production is secured.

Chemawa varsity defeated the husky basketball team from Mt. Angel College last Wednesday afternoon on our own floor. Not this season has our team exhibited such heady and speedy playing. The visiting team used every effort of which it was capable to win the game, but from the sound of the starting whistle to the end Chemawa out-played them. The final score was 28 to 13. The Chemawa players were: Colby, center; Downie, Adams, forwards; Peratrovich, Chamberlin, guards.
