

LOCAL LORE

Miss Georgina Clark and two younger sisters have been visiting their mother at Chemawa for some days.

Dr. R. E. L. Newberne, special supervisor, arrived at Chemawa on Friday of last week for an official inspection of the school.

Several Salem high school girls were in attendance at the social on Saturday evening, guests of Rose O'Brien and Agnes Swanson.

Mrs. Julia Clark, who has been employed at Chemawa for several years, left on Tuesday for Missoula, Montana, where she expects to reside. Mrs. Clark has been a faithful worker and her departure is regretted by many friends among the students and employes.

Chemawa defeated the Silverton basketball team on Friday evening in our school gym, score 27 to 18. Quite a number of Silverton people came over to witness the game and to cheer their team on to victory. Chemawa, however, was too strong for them. The next game will be with Pacific University at Chemawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are always giving pleasure to their friends by entertaining them in their cozy apartments, but one of the most delightful of these functions was given on Monday evening as a reminder of the anniversary of their marriage, the ceremony being solemnized nine years ago at Chemawa. Elaborate refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was spent by all present.

PUPILS' ITEMS

Basketball season will end on the 24th of February.

Chester Smith is making good progress in his work. Mr. Daly speaks well of him.

The farmer is planning to plow up the 80-acre pasture and seed it to oats.

The vocational girls in the sewing room department have been having tests this week.

The basketball team is doing fine work. We expect it to be the champions of this end of the state.

Effie Davis led the class in a test given the first year girls by Miss Taylor of the Domestic Science department.

Lizzie Kiernan, an ex-student, of Camas, Montana, writes that the winter has been cold, with abundance of snow.

In the domestic science test for the seventh grade girls, Hattie Martin, Effie Davis and Anna Sexton had the best papers.

Joseph Gale is devoting his spare moments to making waste paper baskets for the seventh grade room. His motto is "Service."

Mrs. Elta Doherty was the official visitor at the Nonpareil Literary Society on Wednesday evening. We were glad to have her.

The 1st year vocational class of girls took their first lesson in domestic art this year on Thursday at Mitchell Hall with Mrs. Loos as teacher.

The dairy boys are all through with the disinfecting and white washing of the dairy barns. Doctor Newberne, U. S. Inspector, spoke well of the cleanliness of the barn.

Miss Gertrude Brewer is a very busy person. Beside her daily work she is engaged in helping the ninth grade with the music for the Washington Birthday program.

Albert Griffin, an ex-student, says he expects to be back here in the fall. Albert is a fine boy and a good athlete and Chemawa will be glad to have him back again. He is now at Korbel, California.

For the protection of the lawn in front of the engineering department, a fence constructed of pipe was recently installed by some of Mr. Stewart's boys. The fence gives that department a more attractive appearance.

George Barrett, who has been a member of Mr. Turney's orchestra for a couple of years, playing second violin, is now taking lessons on the 'cello. He is working diligently. Jacob Mynuk takes George's place on second violin.

On Wednesday evening Superintendent and Mrs. Hall visited the literary societies. In spite of the fact that most of the leaders and officers were attending the Y. M. C. A. entertainment in Salem, the meetings were interesting.

Those who attended the gymnastic entertainment given in the armory at Salem by the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening had a good time but seemed to think the Chemawa students could have done better. Henry Campbell is very sure that Chemawa students are able to do better.

The horticulturists are very busy at the present pruning the fruit trees, finishing the small orchard. They seem to be much interested in their work, and will commence spraying immediately. Mr. Westley, the instructor, is very proud of the boys for what they have accomplished during the last two weeks.

Art classes have been formed including all the vocational domestic science girls. Mrs. Loos and Mrs. Evans, both of whom are experts in art needlework, are the instructors. The girls express themselves as being delighted and are enthusiastically entering into the work. We are sure some exquisite work will be ready for our spring school exhibit as well as for the State Fair in September.

A class-room dinner was given on Thursday by the first year vocational girls, division B, in the domestic science department. The menu of cream tomato soup, baked hash, mashed potatoes, brown gravy, rice with vegetables, fruit salad, apple pie and coffee, was well cooked and faultlessly served. This department is doing good work and we are quite proud of the achievements of the classes, which number more than seventy girls in all.
