

REPORTER'S NOTES

Robert Downie

The lawns are in beautiful condition at this time and the hum of the lawn mower is heard on all sides.

Peter Hatch is now working in the Teachers' Club. It seems that he is very successful.

The school laundry is a very busy place. It is in operation six full days each week.

A gradual improvement is noticed in the training of boys and girls for the gymnastic exhibition to be held later.

The various companies are drilling regularly, preparing for the competitive drill to be held during the Alumni week.

Every mail brings in news of the Chemawa boys who are in the army and navy. They are being scattered to various parts of the country.

Mr. Carrow and his force of boys have been very busy the past week grading around the auditorium and laying pipe lines with which to irrigate the lawn.

The intermediate sewing department reports having made 926 garments and mended 2,200 pieces during the month of April. This department has also made throughout the year 308 dresses for girls.

On Thursday of last week the first year vocational girls of the domestic science department put out a private exhibit for the benefit of the final test committee. Many high marks were awarded the exhibitors by the committee.

NOTICE.—Today the second and third year vocational girls of the domestic science department will put on a general food exhibit, which will be public, and a special invitation is extended to all. You will make a mistake if you miss it.

PUPILS' ITEMS

The domestic science girls of the second year are reviewing lessons on fish and poultry.

The eighth grade has been having tests in agriculture right along. They will soon start on history tests.

Edwin Zeiglar, a vocational engineer, is teaching the engineering boys how to use and care for tools.

The eighth grade pupils are interested in reading Current Events, which they get every Friday.

A letter has been received from Ethel Michelle saying she will return to school this fall.

The farmers have finished plowing at the lake and started discing. It is pretty hard discing.

Thomas Hoaglin and Joseph Greer, prevocational engineers, are making a good showing.

The sewing-room girls have just completed a set of work dresses for McBride Hall girls.

Roy Nuckolls, a vocational gardener, is busy rounding up the potato lands. He is just about through and ready for the potatoes.

The little garden around the domestic science building is looking fine, but the chickens will have to be watched closely.

Laura Therriault, the chicken care-taker, is doing fine. She has made a good trade with Mr. Westley for a bushel of wheat for a dozen eggs.

Eugene Geffe, a former student who is now a musician in the United States army, paid a short visit to Chemawa last week.

Word was received from Alex Melovidov stating that the quartet boys were spending a couple of days in Bismarck, N. D.

William Bathle, who is at Ketchikan, Alaska, wishes to be remembered to his classmates of the sixth grade and friends in the school. He states that he is getting along nicely and working steadily.

Bernard Sanderson, confined in the hospital with a broken leg, was the recipient of a dozen beautiful carnations Wednesday from his classmates of the sixth grade.

Mr. Morgan, who has been for many years agent at the Flathead Reservation, Montana, has been transferred to the Colville Reservation, Washington.

The second year vocational girls are all busy preparing for the demonstration they are to give of their work in the domestic science department.

The sewing-room girls have finished all the new percale dresses. They are going to make white middy suits for the girls' summer uniforms.

Theodore Fayas, a vocational engineer, is taking great interest in his work and is progressing. The daily lectures are the means by which the vocationals get much insight into the intricacies of the machinery.

A card has been received from Petroleum Barrett, an ex-student of Chemawa, stating that he has enlisted in the navy at Bremerton, Washington, as a 2nd-class machinist's mate.

Several cards have been received from the quartet boys stating that they are enjoying themselves. They played at Bismarck, N. D., on Monday evening and there were 150 Indian students from the school in attendance.

From various sources we are getting splendid reports of the work of our string quartet in the East. Everywhere they are enthusiastically received and their work commended.
