

PUPILS' NOTES

Coach Warner went to Portland last week and drove his car down from there.

The school is having some improvements put on the boilers in the power plant.

Mr. Allen is again back on the job at the Southern Pacific station at Chemawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arquette of Hubbard, Oregon, visited their children last week.

The painters are painting the doors and lockers in the new rooms at McBride Hall.

Some of the carpenter boys are repairing chairs for use in the boys' rooms in Brewer Hall.

The vocational boys in the tailor shop are kept very busy making up corduroys for the small boys.

The eighth grade pupils were glad to get back to the domestic science and take up their work again.

The ninth grade is busy working on pulleys and levers for demonstration work in the class room.

Robert James, after a long absence from Chemawa, has returned to school and he is gladly welcomed.

The members of the ninth grade are sorry to see Miss Roberts leave and wish her luck in her new work.

The second year vocational girls in domestic science are taking up the composition and food values of meats.

Word has been received from Montana that Sarah Blodgett, an ex-student, passed away last Wednesday afternoon.

Elizabeth Reinville, Veltha Frazier, Myra Rauzi and Mae Adams are appointed to assist Miss Skipton in the kitchen cooking for the football squad.

The second football team are all glad to see Henry Campbell on the field again. Henry hurt his arm and was absent from practice for three or four days.

On the return of the Superintendent from Portland last Thursday, he brought eighteen new rolls of music for the player piano to be used at the students' socials.

A letter from Earl Nuckolls, one of our former students who joined the Marine Corps about a month ago, states that he is getting along nicely and that there is nothing like marine life. He is stationed at Mare Island, California.

A letter has been received from Charles Eder, ex-student, who is stationed at one of the naval training stations in California, saying that he is getting along nicely. He has visited Riverside School a couple of times and is favorably impressed by that school.

The recent reorganization of the eighth grade results as follows: Roy Nuckolls, president; Fred Wilder, vice-president; Effie Davis, secretary-treasurer; George Berry, sergeant-at-arms; Elsie Spokane, yell leader. The motto and colors previously chosen by the class were retained.

REPORTER'S NOTES

By Robert Downie

On Wednesday last Supt. Hall motored to Portland on business.

A force of boys is kept busy sweeping up leaves about the campus.

Last week, Robert Jones, an ex-student, paid Chemawa friends a visit.

On Friday the garden force finished digging a crop 3,000 bushels of potatoes.

Coach Warner and family took the early car to Portland on Wednesday and returned in their Ford.

The burning of stumps and slashing on the 25-acre strip of land north of the hog lot is in full blast.

Chemawa is a busy place—everybody is kept on the jump. The fellow who isn't on the job makes a slip in the cog.

The kitchen force is busy canning pumpkins these days. It is plain that we will have pumpkin pies galore this winter.

Since the arrival of Coach Warner the football squad has experienced some good, hard, signal practice and many tough scrimmages.

On Thursday the athletic field had a thorough cleaning. The captains of each company started his men across the field and track and they took all but the grass and ground with them.

Jupiter Pluvius has waited too long to cast showers upon the athletic field, according to the ideas of Frank Peratrovich and George Nix, so they rushed fire hose No.1 to the gridiron on Thursday and gave it a thorough sprinkling.

Dr. Doney of Willamette University drove out in his car on Wednesday evening to talk to the student body on "War Relief Work," but on account of a mishap in the power house, shutting of the lights, he was unable to give the address. The students regret it very much. They always enjoy hearing the Doctor talk.

Wade Minthorn returned to school on Wednesday of last week. Wade is a live wire and can hold his own when it comes to oratorical contests.

Miss Sarah Pierre, '88, visited the school last week. Miss Pierre, with Mrs. W. E. Buckley, formerly Miss Barr, nurse at Carlisle, are conducting a private sanatorium in Portland.
