LITERARY SOCIETIES

Reliance

On Friday evening, January 31, the Reliance society held its second election of officers for the term. Arthur Johnson was elected president; Fred Wilder, vice-president; Wade Minthorn, secretary; Albert Spearson, treasurer; Edward Croff, sergeant-at-arms, and Roy Nuckolls song and yell leader.

After the election the new officers were called upon for speeches, to which they responded, promising their best efforts in keeping the name of the society in high repute.

Two visitors, Messrs. Loulin Brewer and Gordon Hobucket, were also called upon and gave inspiring and helpful talks. New committees were appointed. Miss McDowell made a few comments and the society adjourned.

Senior Items

In the recent mid-year final examination in Insects and Insecticides Maebelle Heay led with a grade of 97 percent, followed by Frank Johnson, Alicia Kimball, Florence Hoover, Catherine Wilder and Allan Shepard, all above 90 percent.

In the final in Diseases of Economic Plants, Florence Hoover took first place with 100 percent, and was followed by Isabelle Lavadore, Eleanor Hauk, Allan Shepard, Logan Fann, Frank Johnson, Julia Gromoff, and Alicia Kimball, all above 90 percent.

The seniors' sleep is no longer disturbed by the haunting dreams of diseases and monstrous bugs.

Logan Fann was recently appointed president of the senior class and Alicia Kimball vice-president.

Those on the senior class honor roll for January were Florence Hoover, Catherine Wilder, Logan Fann, Julia Gromoff and Alicia Kimball.

Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held on Sunday evening was a good lively one and all present showed much interest in the numbers on the program. The leader of the meeting was George Lekanoff and his topic talk, "God Our Helper," showed good preparation. Other talks given were as follows: "What Have we got from God" by Jacob Mynuk, "How Do we Know that God has Helped Us" Logan Fann, "God Helps Us in Temptation" by Charles A. Williams. The special musical number for the evening, a cornet solo by Jack Pete, was well rendered and appreciated by the members.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon was well conducted by Maybelle Heay. Two good songs opened the session. The lesson, "Seeing Good in Others," was followed by short readings from different members, proved very interesting. A short Bible drill came next. Eleanor Hauk and Alicia Kimball furnished a vocal duet entitled "Sometime, Somewhere." A few songs and the benediction were given before dismissal.

LOCAL

Nancy Mathisen, a new pupil from Kodiak, Alaska, arrived on Wednesday.

Reginald Chapman is the latest addition to Mr. Turney's force of printers.

Nick Hatch and Irving Shepard came down from Portland to attend the Sigma Phi function Saturday evening.

Miss Olive Skipton, who had been in Portland for some time, returned to her post at Chemawa on Thursday. Everybody is glad to see her back in her accustomed place.

Annie McKiver and Adeline Matt left for their homes on the Flathead reservation in Montana on Monday, on account of not being able to pass the physical test required.

During last Sunday evening at chapel service the orchestra played "Devotion" by Mackie-Beyer, Victoria Damon sang "One Fleeting Hour" by Dorothy Lee, the Octette Girls sang "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs" arranged by Parks, Julia Gromoff gave a musical recitation entitled "The Americans Come" by Fay Foster, and the choir sang "He Will Forgive" by Parks. Supt. Hall gave a splendid talk which was full of good, sound advice for all. The evening was one of more than ordinary interest and profit for all.

REPORTER'S NOTES

By Allan Shepard

The carpenters passed a large part of last week preparing heavy timbers for use in the construction of the new wagon shed.

Dairyman Hobucket has sold ten calves for the school. They range all the way from three weeks to three months in age.

Mr. Hobucket reports unusual activity among the dairymen, as they are preparing for spring work. It will soon be planting time, especially in the matter of early gardens.

Last week was a time of mid-winter examinations for a lot of our students. That many were on the "anxious seat" was attested by serious demeanor and the further fact that they did an unusual amount of studying.

The members of our fire companies held a meeting one evening last week after study hour and Mr. Force, engineer, gave the boys instructions in the best methods of making hose connections and various other matters relative to fire duties. It was a good and profitable meeting. The work a fire company may be called on to perform at any time is of greater importance than many people realize.
