SENIOR NOTES

The Senior domestic art girls are very proud of their embroidery work.

Our vice-president, Annie Miller, has the new "Y. W." pins for distribution.

The life histories of all sorts of insect pests are interesting the seniors very much just now.

Our president, Charles Williams, spent the weekend at McMinnville at a "Y" conference.

Our classmate, Roy Frazier, is on his way from "across the pond" to "God's Country," as he calls the United States.

We have a song which says "Seniors Always Busy." It's the truth; if it isn't themes it's algebra and if it isn't algebra it's insects.

Gus Gartiez, sergeant-at-arms of the Class of '20, gave a splendid talk on "My Experience in the Army" at the class program period on Friday.

The Seniors are glad to see Irving Hendrix in school again; it would seem better if he were in the senior class, but his star on the class Service Flag explains that.

Arthur Johnson recited a very good poem of eight or ten stanzas on "Here's to the Class of '20" at the class program recently. It is not necessary to elect a poet—we have one without an election.

George Berry, known in the class as "Hooks," received a few fractured ribs in a recent football game and is now mending them in the hospital. We Seniors are hoping that he may soon be with us again.

Some of the pupils on an outdoor detail said they could hear the senior songs away off and that they sounded good. The class has a number of both old and new songs and they use them for "breathing exercises" almost every day.

On Monday the teacher asked the girls of the class to go with her to another classroom for a little conference during the study period. There were six boys in the class on Friday when the question box was opened and there were four questions asking what the girls did during that Monday period.

Elizabeth Montgomery, Senior, recited "Trouble in the Kitchen" at the Sunday evening assembly.

Gus Gartiez told the class that the most important thing he learned from his experience during the war was that he needed more education and he made up his mind that when he got out of the army he would go straight to Chemawa and get all the government would let him have. And that is what Gus is doing.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

Reliance

President Nuckolls presided over the meeting of the Reliance Society held on Friday evening, October 17th. After some important business was brought before the house and discussed a splendid program was rendered. Mr. Devol and Mrs. Baxter, official visitors, both gave encouraging talks.

Nonpareil

The Nonpareil Society held its meeting on Friday evening and a good program consisting of recitations, orations, readings and vocal and instrumental music was rendered. Official visitors, Miss Brunette and Miss Wilder, gave interesting talks.

Winona

The Winonas met as usual in room nine on Friday evening. The room was decorated in pink and white and a vase of carnations in the two colors on the president's table showed that the group of girls who have selected this flower as their emblem was in charge. After the usual routine of opening, the Carnations sang "It's a way We Have at Chemawa to Drive Dull Care Away." Hattie Martin read an original story; Lucy Sexton gave a nice recitation. Delora Keeler and Anna Stone did very well with their bright little dialogue. Maggie Gardipe and Stella Grimes substituted a song for the members which was omitted because of the illness of one of the performers. The Winona Quartet gave several selections and Maud Craig sang. The visitors, Mrs. Sherman and Miss Roberts, gave helpful little talks and after some business the society adjourned with Winona songs and yells.

LOCAL

Every train during the past month has been bringing students to Chemawa.

Chemawa has now nearly its full quota of students and they are a fine lot. There are more applications and arrivals from Alaska than for a number of years.

Apple picking is still the chief order of the day on the part of the horticulturists. The apple house will not hold all the apples and part of the onion house is to be used.
