SENIOR NOTES

Our Insect collection is growing fast.

On October 20 member number 20 joined the class of '20.

The new High School Algebras are at last here and work goes better.

Julia Gromoff, class of '19, was a welcome visitor at "Class Period" on Friday and gave a helpful little talk.

The class of '20 is lucky in having one wise member—Annie Miller just went through the cutting stage of a wisdom tooth.

We are very glad that it was not the Senior Blue and White which was so badly defeated on our local gridiron on Saturday.

There are more seniors than usual in the football team this year and we are proud of them all, Johnson, Gartiez, White, Kennedy and Berry.

Effie Davis, Andrew White and Charles Williams received the official credentials of the class for membership in the Student-body Council.

The Senior male quartet with a membership of Kennedy, Williams, Johnson and Gartiez appeared on the weekly program in a very acceptable number.

From the study of insects the seniors have gathered this addition to their vocabularies—Adolescantulamorism. Sounds like a disease, but it may be a germ disease.

The Senior question box is a center of interest—you never know what personal matter is going to be made the subject of inquiry and the rules say you have to answer.

Annie Miller recited "The Only Woman," Marina Nelson and Effie Davis gave instrumental music, Ruby White and Rose Goff entertained with a dialogue, Fred Wilder read an original bear story and Charles Williams sang at class meeting.

Our symbol (smiles)

Hark, a sweet and cheery warble, see a flash of flying wings,

Catch a gleam of blue amid the fir trees,

Hark, the whistling note our bluebird sings!

Yes, your song will call to us forever,

Tho' we wander far from C. I. S.

We can ne'er forget our class of '20

And our symbol of happiness.

LOCAL

Over 3,000 bushels of splendid apples are being housed for use of students this winter.

The students voice their appreciation of the splendid bread and other bake stuffs sent out by Mr. Chapman and his force of boys

Frank Peratrovich and George Nix have returned from the war and arrived at Chemawa last Friday. George will remain at school and take up his studies, while Frank will return to his home at Bay View, Alaska, to visit with his mother. Both of these young men are splendid athletes and have taken part in many an event at Chemawa, especially in football and basketball.

Fifteen of the Junior Y. W.'s were taken to Salem on Thursday afternoon in three automobiles driven by Miss Eakin, Miss Judd and Carl Donev. These little girls sang several songs for the Willamette University association. Miss Eakin, christian worker, gave an account of the religious work at Chemawa. She says that the little folks did well and delighted the audience.

CHEMAWA TAKES GAME

Chemawa's football team defeated the Dunniway Athletic Park aggregation of Portland on Saturday last on the Indian School grounds. Our team played good ball, but the players were so eager that penalizing for off-side plays was very frequent, keeping the score down by several touchdowns. The score stood 26 to 0. School spirit ran rampant and seldom has the student body been more enthusiastic and yelled, sang and cheered the school team than at this game.

During the "half" of the game, the girls and boys serpentine around the field and in their midst appeared a coffin marked "Dunniway Park," carried by a committee of students, over which Parson George Barrett conducted services. A funeral dirge was played by the band during the mock funeral march. Merriment and enthusiasm were immense. Nick Orloff, George Barrett and Elwood Towner were the leaders.

STUDENT BODY ASSOCIATION

The organization of the Associated Student Body this year is most complete. There have been a number of meetings since school commenced. A constitution and by-laws have been adopted and a full set of officers elected as follows:

President, Arthur Johnson; vice-president, Elwood Towner; secretary, Eleanor Hauk; treasurer, Irving Shepard; sergeant-at-arms for girls, Mary Motanic; sergeant-at-arms for boys, Andrew White; student body reporter, Allan Shepard; yell leaders, Nick Orloff and George Barrett; supreme council of ten members divided among seniors, juniors, sophomores, freshmen and students attending higher schools in Salem.

CHEMAWA GIRL WINS MUCH HONOR

Miss Ruth Brewer, a Chemawa graduate who is now a Senior in the Oregon Agricultural College, has just been elected as a member of the Omicron Nu honorary home economics sorority. Miss Ruth was chosen on account of high scholarship and leadership as well as womanly qualities. Membership in this organization is restricted to twenty and from a long line of material for election Miss Ruth and seven others were chosen.
