SENIOR NOTES

The Seniors appeared in new caps on Monday—all dolled up for commencement!

Louise Silverthorne has been missing rehearsals for a few days, but is reported to be ready for duty again.

Hearts are beating a little more steadily. All signs indicate that the class of '20, as a whole, will receive diplomas.

A class meeting was held on Friday evening. Rumor says it concerned the disposal of the unused wealth of the class. It wasn't a long meeting.

Gus Gartiez went to Salem recently to see himself in the production of "A Soldier of Fortune." His troop was used in filming a part of this picture.

Mrs. Brickell ended her year with the seniors by entertaining them at the employes' club at Sunday dinner. Rose Goff, Ruby White, Annie Miller and Marguerite Chamberlin were the fortunate guests.

Invitations were received recently by the members of the graduating class to attend a party at Miss Eakin's in Salem on Tuesday, May 25th. Miss Eakin's party to the Seniors is always a delightful event.

Marina Nelson, Effie Davis, Ann Sexton and Hattie Martin, who have so faithfully helped to relieve our teacher shortage this year, are having a busy time "being" seniors and also conducting examinations for their classes.

Next Friday night is class night for the '20s. This is one of the final ceremonies of graduation time which does not appear on the official program. It is always of a local character and is meant for the home folks—all Chemawa folks.

Theodore Fayas and Charles Williams claimed to have had severe attacks of heart failure when the math grades were announced. Theodore made a nice little 100 percent on his final exam and Charles followed closely with 98 percent.

ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER VISITS CHEMAWA

Chemawa was favored with a visit on Saturday last by Honorable E. B. Meritt, Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and while he was here for only a day he made an inspection of the entire school, including every department thereof as well as the farm, garden, orchards, dairy. In fact, from the time of his arrival until his departure he was on the go. Not only did he visit all parts of the plant, but met every student in their rooms and dormitories and had a pleasant word for each one. He also visited the student body dining hall at the dinner hour and there he delivered a short, telling address to the 620 students assembled, and they became so enthused that they gave three vociferous cheers spontaneously at the close of his talk. Mr. Meritt's visit here was an inspiration to both students and employes.

DENTAL COLLEGE WINS

Last Saturday our baseball team met defeat for the third time this season when we lost to the North Pacific Dental College of Portland 4 to 3.

The dentists have a long string of victories to their credit and have won ten out of eleven games and lost that one to Chemawa two weeks ago at Portland.

Bettles struck out eight men for Chemawa and allowed seven hits while Quizzenberry for the Dental College struck out seven men and allowed five hits. Score by innings:

N. P. D. C.	0	0	2	0	0	1	1	0	0

LOCAL

A new crop of about fifty little pigs are on hand with an expectancy of fifty more.

Mr. C. V. Peel, Special Agent in charge of the Cushman Indian School, was recently operated on for appendicitis. It is said that he is doing well.

Mr. Turney, director of the orchestra, and Mrs. Turney, music teacher, are responsible for the splendid musical programs given each Sunday evening at chapel service. With the orchestral numbers added to the vocal solos, as well as the choir, glee club and octette, which are trained by Mrs. Turney, we have a treat each week. Indeed, Chemawa could hardly get along without the "Turneys."
