LITERARY SOCIETIES

Excelsior

The regular meeting of the Excelsior Literary Society was held in the academic building in room 7, with President Logan Fann in the chair. A committee of three were appointed, with Frank Corbett as chairman, to revise the constitution. After the old business was transacted the following program was rendered: Opening address, President Fann; jokes, Roy Sansaver; reading, Willie Steptin; current events, Irving Hendrix. After the program our critic, Miss Hendrix, made a few remarks. After a few society songs and yells the society adjourned.

Winona

Last Friday evening the Winona Literary Society held their first election of officers in the usual Winona meeting room. School songs and cheers were given to get in practice for the rooting the girls expected to do on the ball field the next day. The program for the evening had been omitted to give place to the election of officers which took place with the following results: President, Julia Gromoff; vice-president, Beulah White; secretary and treasurer, Mabel Blodgett; reporter, Hattie Martin; cheer leader, Josephine Corbett; sergeant-at-arms, Edna Willette and Jessie Cleveland. The election was followed by the voting in of new members. The busy evening was finished by interesting and beneficial talks by our official visitors, Mr. Devol and Mr. Kirk. These talks were much appreciated by all.

Reliance

Friday evening, October 15th, the Reliance Literary Society met as usual. After discussion of business the following program was rendered: Society song by the members; opening address, Roy Nuckolls; harmonica solo, Lloyd Clements; recitation, Arthur Johnson; song by society quartet, Allan Shepard, Elmer Therriault, Clarence Edwards and Arthur Johnson; current events, Fred Wilder. Mrs. Eaton, official visitor, Miss McDowell, advisory member, each gave helpful talks. After few songs and yells the society adjourned.

Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Last Thursday night the members of the Y.W.C.A. entertained for the new girls with a party in the gymnasium. More than a hundred girls were present. The entertainment was in the nature of a "kid" party and many clever and amusing costumes were seen. A delightful evening was spent playing such old-fashioned games as "London Bridge," "Three Deep," "Ruth and Jacob" and the like, after which dainty lunches, packed in bags, were served to all present.

The Chemawa Y.M.C.A. called a meeting on October 17th for the purpose of electing cabinet officers for the following year. The officers elected are as follows: President, Frank Corbett; vice-president, George Lekanoff; secretary, Fred Wilder; treasurer, Arthur W. Johnson; music, Cruz McDaniels; reporter, Logan S. Fann; chairman religious meeting committee, Roy Nuckolls; chairman social committee, Elwood Towner; chairman mission committee, Logan Fann; sergeant-at-arms, Alex Williams.

Miss Eleanor Holgate of Seattle, Y. W. C. A. student secretary for the northwestern states, was a visitor at Chemawa on Sunday. Miss Holgate addressed a joint meeting of the Senior Y. W. C. A. and the L. L. chapter, Sunday afternoon in McBride Hall, at which time she spoke of the work of the girls' clubs in America and in foreign countries, and also outlined some of the plans for the summer conference for next year. Siltcoos Lake, down on the Oregon coast near Florence, has been chosen as the place for the conference this year, and the Chemawa association is already anticipating a good delegation at this conference. Miss Holgate's visit was much appreciated by the girls and we hope she will come to Chemawa again during this school year.

SENIOR NOTES

The domestic science girls are all busy canning this week.

Beulah White has been promoted and is with her regular class again.

Theresa Gua, Edwin Lilljgren, William Frazier, former students, have returned as seniors.

Seventeen lunches are prepared every morning at the domestic science department for the high school and college students.

There being twelve senior girls in the domestic science department the class is divided into two divisions. The cook prepares for seven.

Ellen and Elizabeth Belle, Harriet Cain and Opal Pearson were transferred on Wednesday to the kitchen to prepare apples for canning.

The seniors have been striving hard for the past month and have been waiting for the arrival of more students before their election day, which was October 15th. The following class officers were elected: Clarence Edwards, president; Nancy Matheson, vice-president; Harriet Cain, secretary; Roy Nuckolls, treasurer; Katherine Loftus, reporter; Mabel Blodgett, sergeant-at-arms; Roy Nuckolls and Louis Colby, program committee; Ellen Belle, yell leader; Edwin Lilljgren, Katherine Loftus and Clarence Edwards, cabinet members.
