CHEMAWA WINS VICTORY OVER U OF O FRESHMEN

Not since the days of Reuben Saunders, Joe Teabo, and Victor Graham, when Chemawa played on a par with all the big college football teams of the Northwest, did it trot onto the field such a strong and mighty team as it did last Saturday against the powerful Oregon freshmen.

This game was the hardest fought and the most spectacular contest staged here in many seasons.

It has been a long time since we have seen anybody hit the line as hard and tear around the end with as much speed and force as did Captain Eder last Saturday. He set the pace and his team mates followed with such wonderful force the Oregon team was driven back within scoring distance several times. Choate at fullback, Sampson, left half, and Bettles, quarter, all dashed into the line and around the ends with all the fierceness of the big college stars.

The initial score of the game was made in the second quarter. Our backfield men rushed the ball to Oregon's 30 yard line where Eder executed a pretty place kick. The half ended 3 to 0 in our favor.

Late in the third quarter Chemawa was penalized all of the distance but one yard from the goal line. On the second rush Oregon carried the ball under our goal posts, making the score 7 to 3.

The fourth quarter opened with the ball in Oregon's possession and with such speed and fierceness we have not witnessed here in years, line bucks, end runs, and tackles were made that has put this game far above any we have seen here before.

Oregon steadily carried the ball to our 20 yard line but were suddenly stopped. Here Chemawa formed a defense that Oregon was unable to penetrate and lost the ball on downs. Then began the aerial and line attack that will long be remembered by those who witnessed this game. The ends pulled passes out of the air and the backs charged through the holes paved by our line on a steady march to the freshmen goal. Not for a second did they stop till Bettles plowed through the line for the final score. The game ended 10 to 7.

Only our old timers can remember so far back when we had a line whose work had more effect on both the offense and the defense and a back field that had more punch than those that defended Chemawa's goal last Saturday. Martin Colby and Hauser, ends; Nix and Bob Downie, tackles; "Lupps" Peratrovich and Nix, guards; Johnson, center; Eder, Choate, Sampson and Bettles in the backfield. These are the men who won the hardest game played in years.

Martin Colby received a painful injury in the leg during the first quarter and was replaced by Liljegen whose plucky playing stood out with the rest.

The team will have a week's rest before the next game and it is expected that the Colby brothers and the other cripples will be back in shape for the game against Pacific University here on the 13th. Chemawa and P. U. are the strongest contenders for the non-conference championship and we are ready to play any team in the Northwest for it.

Our little I.T.C. football team trained faithfully for one whole week preparing to meet the Washington junior high school team of Salem and we have watched them with a lot of real interest. Last Saturday the two teams met. Our boys played like wild fire and won the game before a large enthusiastic crowd 34 to 20.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

Nonpareil

Friday evening room 7 of the academic building was all in Hallowe'en attire for the meeting of the Nonpareils. Business was quickly transacted and the program commenced with the society song. "The History of Halloween" was given by Rebecca Carpenter. Harriet Cain gave a saxophone solo. A ghost story told by Catherine Loftus created a ghostly feeling in the dimly-lighted room. Eleanor Hauk, in her usual charming way, gave a real spooky reading and was greatly applauded. Hattie Cayton performed some sleight-of-hand tricks. The feature of the evening was the never-ending story, "And My Soul was Heavy," told by various members. Fifty-nine clever pantomimes added much amusement to the evening. The Jolly-Up was read by our chief editor, Margaret Lewis. The acting critic, Margaret Chamberlin, gave helpful criticisms. The last thing before adjournment was a nice encouraging talk by our visitor, Mr. James.

Winonas

The Winona Literary Society enjoyed a lively Hallowe'en program last Friday night. Members arrayed as ghost, witches and spooks were the entertainers. The program consisted of ghost stories, fortune telling, Hallowe'en songs and recitations. A clever Maggie and Jiggs dialogue was given by Lena Cleveland and Anna Holst. There were ten well-prepared members on the program and in addition several new members were initiated and several more were pledged. After the business meeting Mrs. Brickell, the official visitor, spoke words of encouragement and praise that was much appreciated by the members of the society. Mrs. S. S. Risser of Florin, Pennsylvania, was also an interested visitor.
