

LOCAL

The number of students enrolled in the junior class is thirty-five. Among the new members are Margaret Jackson, Ethel Henry, Dewey Sampson, Ione Henry, Billie Williams, Elizabeth Poitras and Charles and Wilfred Evans.

"Jazzy" little caps will distinguish the seniors from now on. They made their first appearance this past week and no doubt will be the inspiration to let us know that the dignified seniors are around.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich of Salem were interested visitors at the students' social on Saturday eve. These good people show a great interest in Chemawa and her students and are always most heartily welcomed.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Risser, who have been visiting their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ada B. Risser, for the past two weeks, left Saturday evening for their home in Pennsylvania. They will go by the way of California, where they expect to remain a few weeks visiting all points of interest in that state. They made many friends at Chemawa during their stay here.

The marriage of Marina Nelson, class '20, and Earl Potts, an ex-student of Chemawa, has been rumored around the campus, but this week an official notice of the marriage has been received by the Sigma Phi Deltas. Marina writes that Earl is building a new home for her at Susanville, California, and their future looks bright and happy. Felicitations go out to them from their many friends at Chemawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Turney delightfully entertained at dinner on Saturday eve. The Halloween motif was tastefully carried out in the table and room decorations. Large baskets of autumn flowers and beautifully tinted autumn foliage were artistically arranged about the room. The dinner table was centered with a large bowl of autumn blossoms. The favors were small Jack O'Lanterns, filled with nuts and after dinner mints. Covers were laid for Superintendent and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Downie and Mr. and Mrs. Turney.

The chapel exercises on Sunday evening were fully up to the usual high standard maintained. The orchestra played "Serenade d'Amour" by von Blon, the Octette Girls sang "Angels at Eventide" by Parks, Mabel Blodget gave as a recitation "The Voice the Germans Missed," Miss Judd gave a vocal solo, the choir sang "In Thy Love" by McAuly, and Supt. Hall closed the program with a fine talk to the students, in which he mentions many facts that are vital in student life and education. These chapel talks of Mr. Hall are on practical lines always, hence their value to all.

The Chemawa Y.M.C.A. held a discussional meeting in the auditorium Sunday evening, October 31, 1920. The general topic was: "What the object of the 'Y' is." The following were discussed by members: "What the 'Y' does for the mind," Arthur Johnson; "What the 'Y' does for the body," Fred Wilder; "What the 'Y' does for the spirit," Cruze McDaniels. Loulin Brewer and others expressed their point of view of the subject under discussion. The 'Y' has a big plan to execute this year, which will make the organization a bigger and better organization than it has been heretofore.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOTES

The juniors have been working hard making things for sale the last few weeks.

The domestic science girls have been very busy the last few weeks canning and making pickles.

Hattie Cayton is cook in domestic science this week. She has prepared some very appetizing meals.

Laura Waun was very successful with her bread baking last week. She baked bread for high school lunches.

The junior girls find they have made great improvement this last year and their work is much more satisfactory to themselves.

The seniors are studying food preservation and are doing practical work and putting up tomatoes, apples, sauer kraut and apple butter, etc.

The domestic science classes are enjoying the sale of cakes, pies, buns and doughnuts. The preparation of these eatables is good practice in cooking.

The improvements and cement walks about the home economics building are found very convenient and are much appreciated by the domestic science girls.

We have some very good cooks in our class. One of our professionals said to another, "Say, cook, if you do not let oxygen in your oven there'll be combustion (not thinking of her own). Let's look at your cake." It proved combustible, it burned.

MATRON'S DEPARTMENT

Miss Skipton reports that there are ninety-nine tables in the dining hall in use at present.

The laundry in McBride Hall has been supplied with a number of much-needed wash boards.

Mr. and Mrs. Brownell, Mrs. Shoemaker and two other residents of Portland were visitors at the school on Monday.

All the chairs, tables and dressers in McBride Hall have been painted white. This adds greatly to the appearance of the rooms.

McBride Hall is full to the limit. Every available space is used for beds. In fact, we have all the girls that we can accommodate at the present time.

SENIOR NOTES

Harriet Cain made her first appearance at Chemawa as a saxophone soloist on the senior class program.

At the class meeting Friday Edwin Liljegren and Daniel Orton gave the Scene of Two Gobos, from The Merchant of Venice.

It was all eight senior girls could do Sunday noon to beg Mr. Devol to take them walking for he can certainly joke and tease—but he gave them a fine walk.

According to Chemawa custom the seniors, wearing their new class caps, appeared in the dining-room on Friday noon and gave vigorous yells for their class and school.

You should have heard the senior girls at the domestic science preparing the supper for the football boys when they heard that Chemawa won and our boys were coming for supper. The girls gave the team a yell along with a fine supper for four tables of hungry men.