

OUR HOLIDAYS' SCHEDULE

The Christmas holidays always prove of the very greatest interest and importance at Chemawa. Each year Supt. Hall makes it a point to see that nothing is left undone which will add to the comfort, entertainment and joy of the large student body under his charge. That his plans for this year are fully up to the standard which he established in former years is amply proved by the following schedule for the week:

DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOTES

Our demonstration meals this week are prepared by Lillian Gauthier on one division and Estelle Flynn on the other. They are very creditable to students of the 8th grade.

The domestic science girls have unusual opportunities to become good cooks. Besides the cooking of meals they get a large practice in baking cakes and pies. Almost every day they sell their baking, making their department self-supporting.

Anna Miller, one of the class of 1920, is taking post-graduate work in domestic science with a view to teaching it to the beginners in the Alaska government schools. Anna has a splendid opportunity to learn both the methods of handling class work and the chance to do practical work as well.

Teacher: "Girls, when do you serve to the left?"

D S. Orderly: "I know."

Teacher: "When?"

D.S. Orderly: "When you pass the bread."

Our small laboratory and kitchen is very much crowded when the seventh grade girls have their cooking lessons. We are wishing for a class-room.

ACADEMIC NOTES

The Juniors have been working hard of late getting their algebra note-book up to date.

The Three L girls are very busy studying on their songs and recitations for the Christmas holidays.

The Sophomores had a test in history last week and all are anxious to know who has the highest grade.

The Sophomores are getting up a good collection of songs and yells to support their teams during the holidays.

The Sophomore class is not to be outdone during Christmas week. They have a girls', as well as a boys', basketball team that will make the other classes work hard.

In a try-out for the coming class basketball games the girls of the Junior and Sophomore classes played a game marked with many spectacular plays on part of the Sophies. Since the game the Junior team has been strengthened somewhat and they expect to give the Seniors a stiff game.

The usual colony of crows are again in winter quarters at Chemawa and are "hawking" their heads off.

A fake fire alarm sounded for drill purposes on Thursday proved that some of our firemen need "signal practice."

The American is pleased to announce that the stork has visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kininnook and Alberta Jeanne Kininnook is the third member of the family. Her arrival was dated December 3rd. Their home at present is Arcata, California.
